Huge Crowd Grets LBJ On Tour Through Georgia

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Half a million Georgians poured into the streets Friday to cheer President Johnson before he wound up a politically profitable trip through poverty-stricken Appalachian areas.

Johnson strongly appealed for racial justice and rejection of extremism and "the tattered and discredited banners of the past."

The massive reception in Georgia's capital for the President climaxed a whirlwind, behind — schedule, handshaking tour of six states in the Johnson war on poverty.

He spoke to hundreds of thousands, collected two Bengal tiger cubs, picked up a beagle hound—but not by the ears—and shook countless hands in Atlanta.

Crowds lining the 8-mile motorcade route from a downtown hotel to the airport were estimated at 500,000 by Police Chief Herbert Jenkins.

From Atlanta, Johnson traveled by helicopter to Gainesville in northeast Georgia for the final phase of his trip. He got a rousing welcome on a smaller scale there.

Harry Has Busy Day In Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — A sprightly 80-year-old with a red rose in his button hole went through a round of birthday festivities Friday—and only once did he choke up.

That was when the octogenarian, Harry S. Truman, visiting old buddies in the Senate, was invited to make a speech from the floor. The invitation was a historic first. It was only last year that the Senate passed a resolution permitting ex-presidents to address the chamber in official session.

History books must record that, for one of the few times in his life, HST flubbed. He could not say much of anything, especially after hearing all those flowery tributes from Democrats and Republicans classing him among the greats.

"I was filled up," he explained at a birthday luncheon later at the National Press Club. "If they had cussed me out, I would have known what to do."

It was a great day for the ex-president, and he passed out advice freely — from what to do about Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama to how to combat Republicans. You do not do anything in either case, Truman figured, because both Wallace and the GOP are doomed to futility.

Sales Tax Hike Supporters File For Amendment

DENVER (AP) — Advocates of a constitutional amendment which would increase Colorado's 2 per cent sales tax to 3 per cent filed copies of their plan with the secretary of state Friday afternoon and requested a ballot title.

The title must be placed on the amendment before circulation of petitions can begin. To win a place on the November ballot for the amendment, the (Turn to Page A5, Column 6)

Younger Ngo to Be Executed Today

SAIGON (UPI) — Ngo Dinh Can, a younger brother of the late President Ngo Dinh Diem, will be executed Saturday at Saigon's Chia Hoa Prison, despite a mercy appeal to Vietnamese military leaders by U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

Lodge said he appealed to Premier Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh and Maj. Gen. Duong Van Minh to spare Can's life. Later, the revolutionary courtiers, Truman described himself as "an old worn-out politician" (Turn to Page A5, Column 5)

Gen. Maroun to Command Carson

The next commanding general of Fort Carson and the 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized) is another fighting man, just as the general he will succeed.

Maj. Gen. Autrey J. Maroun is scheduled to report to Fort Carson in August to succeed Maj. Gen. John Heintges who will move on to command the Infantry School.

Both men were field grade officers during the American fighting in Europe during World War II, and both were highly decorated. Maroun was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross, the Silver Star and the Purple Heart with oak leaf cluster. He also was awarded the Combat Infantryman's Badge with distinction.

Crash Caused By Shot

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI investigation has determined that a passenger on the Pacific Airlines plane that crashed Thursday near San Francisco, killing 44 persons, took out a substantial insurance policy on himself and apparently shot at least one member of the crew.

Informed sources said Friday night that the owner of a powerful Magnum revolver found in the plane wreckage also had taken out shortly before the flight an insurance policy in excess of $50,000 on himself.

The FBI laboratory, it was learned, has determined that the revolver found in the plane's wreckage in the foothills of Contra Costa County, 40 miles east of San Francisco, held six empty cartridges which had been fired recently.

The sources confirmed earlier (Turn to Page A5, Column 6)

Speaker Says U.S. Should Get Off Tranquilizers

"Put down your tranquilizers, get off of it, and get back to work," was the prescription Paul Harvey, radio news commentator and principal speaker, told listeners Thursday in an hour-long speech before the 64th annual convention of Georgia Textile Manufacturers Association at the International Center.

Conferees and a public audience of some 300 applauded their approval to the news commentator's verbal attack on sloth, indolence, handout seeking, and a general public embrace of achieving a personal charity status Harvey's talk was also carried on a local radio station.

"I sometimes wonder if we are purposely perpetuating unemployment in the United States," Harvey said. "Relief roles are growing across the land, not just in the Appalachian area."

He charged that Americans as a race, interceding on behalf of the underdog, have succeeded in reversing the positions of the helper and the helped. "So vigorously have we championed the world's underdogs, that the underdogs have taken over."

He held that this same approach, after being carried to such an extreme, becomes apparent in the form of a penalty placed on excellence.

Tiny Infant Takes Food For Self

DENVER (UPI) — Bobby Glen Choate took his first nourishment by mouth Friday and continued to hold his own in a fight for survival that began in a morgue.

The two-pound, two-ounce baby was in an incubator at Colorado General Hospital. Doctors said he is making the most of his one chance in 10 of surviving.

The boy was born unexpectedly, three months premature, in a doctor's office Tuesday. The physician spent an hour trying to revive him, and declared him dead. But Adams County Coroner Jack St. Germain heard him gasp at the mortuary three hours later.

The baby's mother, Mrs. Larry Choate, 17, confined to bed two days by the ordeal, got her first look at her son Thursday.

11 Killed, 50 Injured When Tornado Hits Michigan Area

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (AP) — Eleven persons were killed and at least 50 injured late Friday when a tornado that roared like a giant vacuum cleaner swept across southeastern Michigan.

Gov. George W. Romney immediately left the Republican State Convention at Grand Rapids on the other side of the state to go to the disaster area.

Macomb County Sheriff Lester A. Almstadt, who gave the death toll, said the twister-smashed area was about two miles long and three-quarters of a mile wide.

"There is very heavy destruction," he added.

Almstadt said the search for bodies had been discontinued until Saturday morning.

The tornado appeared to have hit with the mass force in Chesterfield Township, a residential area that lies between the southeastern Michigan cities of Mount Clemens and New Baltimore. All the dead were here. (Turn to Page A5, Column 5)

Barry's Backers Win Skirmish In Wyoming

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater's supporters won a preliminary skirmish in the Wyoming Republican state convention Friday when they blocked a move to send an unpledged delegation to the national convention.

The action does not mean that the 12-member delegation, to be selected Saturday, will be bound to support Goldwater or any other candidate.

Most of the 12 delegates — and possibly all — are expected to be Goldwater supporters.

Wyoming traditionally sends an uncommitted delegation to national conventions, but the resolutions committee, which will report Saturday, has voted 10-7 to recommend sending a delegation to San Francisco pledged to Goldwater.

Powers Says GOP Must Hit Back at Demos

PUEBLO (UPI) — Republican National Committeeman William S. Powers said Friday it is time the GOP started hitting back at attacks on Gov. John Love.

Lawmaker Held In Shooting Plot

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A Negro Maryland lawmaker was indicted and arrested Friday as the mastermind of a plot to assassinate Mrs. Verda Welcome, the only Negro member of the state Senate, who was shot and wounded twice from ambush.

Ernest Young, a member of Maryland's House of Delegates who was indicted last month for conspiracy and obstruction of justice, was arrested shortly after the grand jury handed up its surprise indictment.

Four other men already have been arrested on charges they took part in the plot.

The motive behind the murder plot has never been explained by police. Mrs. Welcome, wife of a Baltimore doctor, has said she has no idea why anyone would want to take her life. Police have said civil rights was not an issue.

Dominick Asks GOP Support for Return of Liberty

Republican Sen. Peter Dominick criticized sharply the Democratic administration Friday night and called on Colorado Republicans to join with party members in other states to bring back the "shining light of liberty, justice and freedom."

Speaking at a dinner meeting of the Republican Women's Round Table at the Alamo Hotel, Sen. Dominick criticized the Democratic administration Friday night and called on Colorado Republicans to join with party members in other states to bring back the "shining light of liberty, justice and freedom."

Prior to his address, a member of the round table, Mrs. Bernice Johnson, auctioned off for a total of $175, two hats furnished for that purpose by Mamie Doud Eisenhower and Patricia Nixon, a pair of gloves provided by Mrs. Barry Goldwater, and a scarf donated by Mrs. William Scranton.

In his 45-minute address, Dominick extended special greetings to "Johnson for turning off the lights, Castro for turning off the water in Cuba and Baker for turning on the heat all over the country."

He read several excerpts from the Congressional Record in which President Lyndon Johnson gave special praise to Bobby Baker, then secretary for the majority in the Senate. He also read an account in which a Nevada senator referred to Baker as "Lyndon, Junior."

The senator said he had been hearing that the Republican party is the junior party and that its members need to do something about the situation.

He pointed out that despite these reports, the Republican party in 1960 had more popular votes than the Democrats, 34,108,000 for the GOP, 33,815,000 for the Democrats.

He said the GOP carried more states, more congressional districts and more counties in election (Turn to Page A5, Column 1)

Violence No Help for Civil Rights, Says Love

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The right of petition and peaceful demonstrations are guaranteed by the Constitution but uncontrolled demonstrations only deter the civil rights cause, Gov. John A. Love said Friday.

Colorado's chief executive told a news conference at the Biltmore Hotel that he does not believe that demonstrations which include violence aids the cause but that peaceful demonstrations and the right to picket are "right, proper and effective."

Love recalled the Congress of Racial Equality held a sit-in demonstration in his Capitol office at Denver for three days. "But I did not put the civil rights question on special call because I refused to yield to that source of pressure," he said.

The governor pointed out his home state was among the first to enact public accommodations, fair employment and equality of opportunity legislation.

Love came to Los Angeles following the Western Governors' conference in San Francisco earlier this week. He spoke before the county GOP Central Committee Thursday night and was scheduled to speak at a meeting in the San Fernando Valley Friday night.

His plans also include an address at Occidental College where his 19-year-old son, Andy, is a freshman.

The group includes five ladies. Four are senators and the other is a member of parliament. All Canadian political parties will be represented.

The party will be met at Peterson Field by both NORAD Commander in Chief General John K. Gerhart as well as his deputy RCAF Air Marshal C. Roy Slemmon who just this week announced his imminent retirement from the military service.

Immediately following their arrival the Canadian officials will be closeted with members of the NORAD staff for a series of meetings at the Canadian-United States aerospace defense complex here.

The group will depart Colorado Springs about noon Sunday for Northern NORAD Region headquarters at North Bay, Ontario where they will receive further briefings on the NORAD operation.

BERLIN (UPI) — Communist East Germany said Friday it expelled turncoat U.S. Army Capt. Arnold Svenson because he committed crimes behind the Iron Curtain and was not worthy of asylum.

American sources said Friday that Svenson, turned over to U.S. authorities Thursday night, would be court-martialed for desertion and possibly for betraying secrets to the Communists. (Turn to Page A5, Column 6)

They indicated, however, that Moscow is worried over Peking's nuclear potentialities in view of the Sino-Soviet dispute. (Chinese Foreign Minister Marshal Chen Yi, in an interview published Friday in the Maanien newspaper in Tokyo, was quoted as saying: "It is not difficult for us to possess nuclear weapons, and we will equip ourselves with such weapons.")

Confidence in the attitude of the Johnson administration toward business seemed to be reflected in the favorable projection made by the professional economists, and in the views of the industrialists themselves.

Industrialists See Expansion

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — W. B. Murphy, president of Leading American industrialists predicted Friday that business expansion will continue into 1965 without serious inflationary problems, and with the tax reduction exerting greater stimulative effects as 1964 advances.

The optimistic report was delivered at the spring meeting of the Business Council, made up of the heads of nearly 100 of the country's biggest corporations. The chairman of the Committee on the Domestic Economy,

WORRY CLINIC

Notice Andy Smith's clever use of psychology and then be sure to send for the booklet below, for these newspaper booklets are entirely non-profit educational aids. Thousands of business and professional people keep them in a scrapbook for later use.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE S-459: Andy Smith is a veteran advertising man with the Cambridge (Ohio) JEFFERSONIAN.

John Peters (Advertising Manager) and Bob Amos, talented editor, had met my plane at Zanesville during National Newspaper Week.

They took me to the JEFFERSONIAN office to meet the entire staff of 65 employees.

During the day I addressed 2,000 high schoolers, plus 200 men at a combined service men's luncheon, and then an overflow crowd that night.

Over 20 per cent of the entire city turned out, which shows the tremendous good will be enjoyed by the newspaper.

Later I had a chat with Andy Smith, who said he especially relished every one of these columns that deal with advertising.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I'll give you a personal example to show the importance of using proper words in proper places. As you know, our advertising clients may contract for a given amount of space.

"When I was a novice on the job, I would go up to such a client and tell him, 'You must use 15 more inches to fulfill your contract.'

"That would often make him grow irate. He apparently felt I was trying to high pressure him.

"But then I hit upon a clever method of avoiding such an angry response.

"So now I smile and say, 'You have 15 more inches of advertising space coming to you."

"So now he beams and figures I am doing him a favor. Thus, he finishes out his contract and we are both happy about it."

DEAN SWIFT
Dean Swift, British literary genius, was once asked how to define literary style and he replied:

"It is simply proper words in proper places."

Well, that is also a superb definition of Applied Psychology, as Andy Smith has well attested.

One of the big drug chains used to serve eggs in its malted milk.

"Do you wish one egg or two in your malted milk?" would be the clerk's question.

This was an example of a "leading question" for it assumed the customer wanted some egg in his malted milk.

So the usual customer, even if he wasn't expecting eggs, would at least order ONE egg.

Another drug chain instructed its clerks to smile and say, after every customer had placed his order:

"We have a special today on shaving cream (or hand lotion, etc.) at a bargain price so wouldn't you like some?"

And this zoomed sales enough, so the General Manager told me, to pay the clerk's salaries.

Most of the dilemmas arising between human beings could be allayed by simply using proper words in proper places (and at the crucial moment).

So send for my booklet "New Psychology of Advertising and Selling," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

EILEEN PRIGMORE

Mrs. E. Prigmore Heads Fellowship

At the annual State Assembly of the Christian Churches of Colorado held last weekend in Grand Junction, Eileen Prigmore, 1945 Carlton Avenue, was elected president of the Christian Women's Fellowship.

Goldwater to Rest in West Virginia

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W.Va. (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater, a leading candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, arrived Thursday at the Greenbrier Hotel "for a rest."

The Arizona senator joined Mrs. Goldwater, who arrived at the Greenbrier earlier in the week.

A hotel spokesman said the Goldwaters usually spend a week or two every spring at the spa but probably will stay only for the weekend this year.

The accordion was invented by Reiderick Buschmann at Berlin in 1822.

Delegates Hold Annual Meet At Broadmoor

Delegates from 102 congregations of the United Church of Christ in Colorado held for their annual meeting this week at the Broadmoor Community Church.

Blair Thomas, moderator of the conference, presided over the business sessions which included reports from all committees and departments.

The church program on the local, state, national and world levels was studied by the delegates.

My "Mom"

...and how we love her! She is a unique individual. She is personal. She is mother. It is she who tempers us to fit into a big world. She leavens the life she gave and guides its destiny.

Mother is the one who is most concerned when the world may rise against us. She is an important factor in shaping the mold from which real men are made. Not one single human emotion comes nearer the divine than does a mother's love for her child.

Then, respect her experience, her knowledge, her concern for your life. Listen to her pleadings. Follow her teachings. Accept her guidance... for, in few instances, will she ever be wrong. How fitting that we give this day... the second Sunday in May... in her honor. In respect to her, and to show your deepest concern, take her to church this Mother's Day.

FUNGI MAY SEIZE CONTROL

Candida Albicans is a yeast-like fungus. It thrives on skin and mucous membranes that are warm, moist, and macerated. The organisms are responsible for thrush in infants and for some of the rashes that appear in the groins, gluteal creases, along the nail folds, in the armpits, and under the breasts.

This ringworm-like fungus also attacks the gastro-intestinal tract and female genitalia. Candidiasis of the lungs simulates pulmonary tuberculosis. It also is responsible for rectal itching following the use of oral antibiotics, which destroy the normal bacterial inhabitants of the colon. This changed flora allows C. albicans to take the upper hand. The only good things we can say about these critters is that they do not attack hair, disintegrate nails, bore holes through the skin, or kill the infected person; and they are easy to treat.

Involvement of the webs between the fingers usually leads to an oval shaped area of excoriated white skin; the eruption may extend to the sides of the fingers. One or more red cracks may open in the center of the lesion. Peeling occurs, leaving a painful, raw, denuded area surrounded by a white, slightly elevated collar. The webs between the middle and ring fingers are favored in women because they don't remove their rings when washing dishes or cleaning house. The moisture that collects on the skin below encourages growth of the fungi.

A somewhat similar eruption occurs under pendulous breasts, in the skin folds of the obese, at the corners of the mouth, along the edge of the nails, in the groins, and between the toes and the upper legs. The skin becomes moist, white, or brownish and usually is covered with a slimy mucus. The fungus can be identified under the microscope.

Nystatin is a specific remedy. It can be administered orally or applied locally in a cream, ointment, dusting powder, or as a suppository.

Many persons are immune to this type of infection. Recent studies may provide the answer to why this happens. In blood studies of 300 subjects who were free of monilial disease, Dr. Donald B. Louria found an antifungal factor that apparently inhibits the growth of these organisms.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

Damaged Heart

R. J. L. writes: A man of 54 had a heart attack, which left damage the size of a quarter. Would this be considered mild or severe?

Reply

Average. The usual heart attack follows occlusion of a narrowed coronary artery. The basic cause remains and, in this respect, all attacks are serious.

SEWING AFTER SURGERY

A. D. writes: Will a woman of 57, who makes her living at a sewing machine, be able to resume this work after operation for a detached retina?

Reply

Yes, provided the operation is successful.

PROTEIN IS ESSENTIAL

Reply

No. Protein is important at all ages.

This refers to the appearance of a mildly infected gall bladder, when the lining is studded with deposits of cholesterol.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

You Can't Have It Both Ways

Ever since the advent of so-called socialist theory as a deliberately promoted system, text books and text-book writers have geared their thinking to the idea that the world is permanently hitched up to what could be called an "economy of scarcity."

That is, from Marx to Norman Thomas, the central theme has been that wealth is scarce, unevenly distributed and poverty a standard condition for vast numbers of human beings. Having reached this conclusion, based on predictions which stem from the idea that data collected from the past is the best index of the future, socialists have intoned the doctrine that the only way to fight poverty is to have the government intervene.

We are experiencing a new wave of this old-fashioned notion in America. President Johnson, although he has not made poverty illegal as yet, wants to wage a "gentle" war on the condition of scarcity.

The reason for government intervention, we have been endlessly reminded, is that rich and successful people are "greedy" and therefore the force of government must be invoked so that some kind of "equitable" distribution can occur, i.e., men of means will willingly surrender what they have. Thus, what they have must be taken away from them by force (taxes, confiscation, regulation, violence, war).

But now a new "threat" seems to have reared its head and is scaring the daylight out of socialist theorists. It can be stated thusly: "Through technology and automation, our former economy of scarcity is evolving into an economy of abundance."

If this is to be the new base for economic reasoning, then it follows automatically that all of the socialist writings and reasonings dating back to Marx are going to have to be junked. Text books will have to be rewritten.

A whole new world is about to open which opening is geared to capitalism. "That outmoded, production occurs for profit and not for use."

At this juncture, if socialists

Inertia

The problem is to overcome inertia. Once you are in motion and production a constant, the very momentum gained will help to overcome threats and problems.

'Ta Ta, Tan Tan'

One of the important questions in the minds of many of us has to do with the sincerity of the bitterness now appearing between Communist China and Communist Russia. The press reports for some time have been playing up what is called a "growing rift." And it is logical and meaningful to ask whether or not such a "rift" is real or if it is merely a pose.

Anti-communists tend to believe that it is a pose. They are so fully committed to the idea of conspiracy that virtually every event to occur is interpreted in that light. Thus, the reported schism is viewed in anti-communist circles as a deliberate ruse, designed to trap the unwary.

Especially meaningful for anti-communists, but excellent fare for all and sundry, is Valentin Chu's recent book on the subject, entitled, "Ta Ta, Tan Tan" ("Fight Fight, Talk Talk"). (W. W. Norton Co. $4.95).

Chu was born, educated and first employed in China. He graduated from St. John's University in Shanghai and joined the staff of "The China Press," an influential Chinese newspaper published in English. He is now an American citizen and writes from state-side. But his background and his thought patterns are Chinese and this gives him an enormous advantage as he tries to fathom the Chinese riddle of Mao and Chiang.

Chu is certain that the rift between Mao and Khrushchev is very real. But he supports his view by reciting the inside story of Mao's many failures, some of which were induced by Mao's acceptance of his own party propaganda.

He gives solid material on the nature and the formation of the Chinese character and shows that the Chinese people, though nominally communist at the moment, are far more ready to revolt than the Western press has reported.

Indeed, the truly surprising part of his story from our point of view was his praise of Chiang and his insistence that the forces on Formosa are strong and getting stronger. As Chu reports it, Chiang is only holding back from an attack on the mainland because of American pressure on him. And should such an attack be opened, Chu is confident the rank and file of Chinese, by the millions, would rise up to give aid to the Nationalist forces.

By far the most interesting part of his book deals with what he calls the "Instant Paradise" of the "Mad Statistician" (Mao). And here Chu is equipped with figures and facts which largely have been omitted from Western news media. His chapter headings reveal the content: "Gate of Heavenly Peace"; "How to Eat Without Food"; "Backyard Furnaces — an Exercise in Metaphysics"; "The Bamboo H - Bomb"; "Home, Confucius, and Chaste Widows"; "Literature of the Illiterate," and so on.

Rhyme and Reason

By RUFUS L. PORTER

I REMEMBER KITTY HAWK. I remember the Wright brothers' first flight. My grandmother read the world-startling prose. As we sat round the fire one wintry night.

Watching the sparkle as the flames arose.

The way of the birds had at last been found. So ran the story of the great event.

Man and his dreams were no longer earthbound—He was free to explore God's firmament.

'Men will learn too much for their good some day.

If God had intended that they should fly.'

My grandmother said in her simple way.

'He'd have given them wings with which to try.'

'Ah! But He did,' my old grandfather said.

'God gave man wings — He put them in his head.'

Physically, we are no longer earthbound. Sixty years after the Wright brothers' first flight we are soaring into outer space and reaching toward the stars. But politically and economically we are permitting ourselves to be bound hand and foot by big government, and many of the so-called conservative thinkers, some of whom wield a great deal of influence, are helping in the binding process. David Lawrence is one of these.

In his magazine, "United States News and World Report," April 27 issue, Lawrence says in an editorial about the pending railroad strike that the problem belongs to the federal government. He points out that in most other countries of the world the railroads have been nationalized and hints at that solution for American lines.

He sees only one answer to the threat of a crippling strike — government interference to protect the economy from a general breakdown. He deplores the need of government intervention but speaks of its backyard furnaces is especially revealing.

Mao dreamed of making China a steel empire. So he ordered men employed in agriculture to put down their forks and spades and become metallurgists.

They went by the thousands into the hills to dig ore, when most of them had never seen ore and wouldn't recognize it if they did see it.

Baskets of rocks, bits of old scrap and occasional pieces of ore were then brought in by huge armies carrying baskets loaded with the trash. This was dumped into backyard incinerators, which were now stoked up to simulate blast furnaces. The resulting slag was employed as though it were metal. And of course things made from this material, which certainly was not steel, were full of ash and carbon, and crystallized and broke at every turn.

Meanwhile, food production had been slowed and starvation ensued while at the same time Mao's "loyal party henchmen" brought in statistics to prove that Mao had made the big leap and had produced more food and more steel in one year than had been dreamed possible.

Whatever you may know or not know about China, your information isn't complete unless you read "Ta Ta, Tan Tan."

After reading it, we believe you will be better able to evaluate current news items coming from the Far East.

When did it become my responsibility — or right — to decide how the money you earn should be spent? Why is it necessary to force everyone to contribute to a political "war on poverty"? Why can't each and every person make up his own mind about the use and disposition of his own property? Why does every decision have to be collective?

One shining beauty of a free society is that it permits each individual to choose for himself. If he makes a mistake, no one else suffers. And even he will profit from his own mistake, for he will then know enough not to repeat it.

But in our present welfare state, a little band of politicians in Washington is currently trying to decide for us how much money each of us should give to their pet projects — "aid" to other governments, "aid" to depressed areas, medical research, education, etc.

And, whether they are right or wrong in their politically-motivated decisions, every one of us inevitably He demands government action to prevent what he terms "permissive anarchy" should it allow a strike to occur. But we have had permissive anarchy in this country ever since the government started backing the big labor bosses and prosecuting industrial management.

Riots, bloodshed, death and destruction have followed the path of labor union "advancement" since the '30s, and with the convocation of the NLRB, the Congress, the executive branch and the Supreme Court. Permissive anarchy? Man, we've been having it.

The more control we allow the government to hand over to the union bosses, the more permissive anarchy we are going to have. And that is what any power given the government to force the railroads to submit to the unions' demands will amount to.

The railroads are even now on a one-way street and have passed the point of no return. The next step — nationalization. The picture wouldn't look so dark if it were not for the fact that many of our "conservative" element believe as Lawrence does.

The United States News and World Report is, on the whole, well grounded in conservatism, and many of Lawrence's editorials are well over to the right of center. But it takes only one article such as the one on the railroad strike situation to undo all the conservative writing he has ever done. If we don't want socialized railroads, or socialized anything else, we MUST keep the government out of them. And we must put it out wherever it has already forced itself half-way in, and that's almost everywhere.

If the "conservatives" really want to prevent permissive anarchy, such as we have been suffering these past 30 years, let them advocate the repeal of all laws that give the unions special privileges to riot, kill and destroy. Let them be subject to the laws that govern industry and remove all government aid and comfort to the union bosses and stop paying strikers "unemployment insurance."

as is done in several states, and the big threats to our economy will be removed.

The trick, as developed by the New York Central Railroad for one, is to combine rail and short-haul truck activity without wasting hundreds of labor-hours in transferring dry bulk stuff from one means of conveyance to another. The Central has developed great pneumatic hoses which are able to transfer twenty tons of dry bulk commodities from a 125-ton hopper car to a short-haul highway trailer truck in less than ten minutes. Only one man is needed to handle the transfer.

This so-called flexi-flo process is very likely to change the industrial map of the United States. For example, cement plants have been almost universally situated close to cheap water transport. There are, however, regions where limestone, which constitutes 75 per cent of the raw materials that go to make up cement, is not close to water. The state of Ohio has rich limestone sites, notably in Delaware county, that stand to benefit greatly from the new low-cost methods of transporting bulk materials by rail and short-haul truck.

Only last week the country was trembling lest a national rail strike should bring the economy to a standstill. Of course, there would have been some continuing movement of goods by long-haul truck and barge. The truth is that we do have competition between various means of transport, which means that a total tie-up of the country is unlikely.

CONSTANT FEARS

The fears of crippling partial tie-ups, however, are always there, and it is often said that if Hoffa were to strike the long-haul truck companies it would will be forced to pay as prescribed.

GROWTH RETARDED

But even more important, each of us is robbed of the responsibility to grow and develop our own intellects. For only in a state of freedom and self-responsibility can a human being develop himself to his full capabilities. The welfare state robs every one of us of the opportunity to be a whole person, capable of governing his own life.

The only legislation that should be discussed in Washington right now is legislation to repeal all of the meddling that has been placed in the law books during the last 50 years. If the government will quit trying to make our economic and moral decisions for us, we can all begin to grow and produce the abundance that will start the American dream upward again.

Freedom is the "thinking man's" philosophy — because it gives every man an opportunity to think and be a human being. And when you stop to think about it — every man is a "thinking man."

These Days

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Now that the railroads seem to be off the hook after the mediation of the labor crisis in the White House, they are free to resume their unending battle to survive as a rigorously controlled industry in a world that keeps a much looser rein on Jimmy Hoffa's truckers.

For some railroads such as the New Haven, the struggle often seems hopeless. But others are manifesting considerable ingenuity in waging their fight for competitive survival in spite of having to get permission from the Interstate Commerce Commission to change their rates, or to discontinue unprofitable runs, or to engage in piggy-backing activities.

Their gallantry and cleverness receive rueful tribute from sources that stand to profit from railroad failures. Last week I asked Gerard Ives, who has been immersed in atomic power plant investment activities for the Morgan Guaranty Trust Company, what the prospects were for getting more and more cheap electricity from the atom. Mr. Ives winced. The outlook for atomic investment would be better, he said, if it were not for the truly remarkable economies made by the railroads in their handling of bulk coal shipments to conventional coal-burning power plants.

Coal, as it turns out, is merely one source of business for the newly competitive railroads. The recent teamster union wage hikes, which have added to the cost of long distance truck hauling, have helped to set things up for some recently devised rail methods of moving dry bulk materials. These materials include phosphates, fertilizers, lime, cement, flour, feed grains, sugar and plastic powders, and pellets of all kinds.

Billion-Dollar Insult

By THURMAN SENSING

President Johnson's announcement that he will ask Congress to approve a billion dollar aid program for ten Appalachian states is an insult to the enterprising Americans who comprise the citizenry of those states.

The states named are Maryland, Virginia, Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia and North Carolina. Those great commonwealths, numbering among them some of the original 13 states of the Union, should not be put in a class with greedy international seekers after handouts such as Upper Volta and Liberia.

These states have their problems to be sure. But then, what state in the Union lacks special problems? Even New York and California, two of the richest states, are invariably hard pressed to meet all the demands put on state government. But there isn't any groundswell of support for a colossal WPA project for the Appalachian states. One can be sure that the people of those states and those communities within them that have economic problems are much more eager to get new private investment than they are to be recipients of handouts.

In the first place, many of the states mentioned by Mr. Johnson have done very well indeed in the post-World War II move of industry into the South. The only non-Southern states, Pennsylvania and Ohio (how did Ohio get in Appalachia?) are two of the wealthy states in the Union, and don't need a handout from anybody. As for the Southern states, their departments of industrial development frequently advertise the independence and economic resourcefulness of their citizens. Take North Carolina, for example. The Tar Heel State has been spectacularly successful in getting new industry, in acquiring research centers, in building up its universities and otherwise raising the level of the state's life. To think of North Carolina as a state with an upturned, extended palm is to libel that state. And that's what Mr. Johnson has done. North Carolina is perfectly capable of stepping up its prosperity out of its own resources, and one can be sure that's what North Carolinians want.

What goes for North Carolina also applies to the other states. Virginia long has operated on the pay as you go principle. The thrift and careful management of public funds has been the rule since the 1920s, when Harry F. Byrd was governor. It is ridiculous to think of Virginia being marked down as one of the states needing a domestic version of the foreign aid program. South Carolina has made a mammoth investment in new public schools and in good roads. It is one of the world's leading textile manufacturing areas. It isn't crying for a handout.

The sound developments in the other states cited by Mr. Johnson could be discussed if space permitted. Considered overall, these states are self-reliant states. What they need and want is more private industry, not presidential largesse from the public purse.

Indeed, the Southern states mentioned by the President are states with excellent prospects for the future. With open space, abundant electric power rates,

Colonial Delayed By Rain

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—A cloudburst forced postponement of the second round of the $75,000 Colonial Invitation Golf Tournament Friday before most of the players venture on the course.

South African Gary Player, whose 68 gave him a one shot lead over the first round, was not on the course at the time.

Tournament officials scheduled a 36-hole test Saturday, with the Sunday 18-hole finale unchanged.

The Saturday forecast called for cloudy skies with the possibility of showers during the afternoon. The course already was soggy from rain earlier in the week.

Play was cancelled moments after Ben Hogan, a contender with a two-over-par 70, teed off on the first hole. Hogan was paired with defending champion Julian Boros, who blew to a first round 77, and Ken Venturi, a 74 shooter.

Art Wall, whose 71 Thursday put him among the leaders, had dipped two under par through four holes when play was stopped. Twenty-seven of the 72-player field were on the course.

Tommy Jacobs, the only contestant other than Player to break par in the first round, ailed the leader by one stroke break par in the first round, tailed the leader by one stroke going into he second and third rounds.

Bunched at 70 were Gary Brewer, Ray Floyd, Al Besse-link and Jerry Edwards, the latter a young Fort Worth player who had practically grown up on the Colonial course.

He had an allowable aiding wind of 1.0 miles an hour.

Pirates Sneak Past Danes In Final Game of Season

By DICK FOSTER

Several Fountain Valley bobbles allowed the Pirates of St. Mary's to end their 1964 baseball campaign on a happy note, posting a 7-5 victory over the Danes at Monument Park, Friday.

Fountain Valley out-hit St. Mary's with 10 connections to the Pirates' seven, but errors cost the visitors the contest. Three errors in the first inning allowed two Pirate runs and a double error on catcher Henry Hosley let the two winning tallies across in the sixth frame. None of the seven Buc runs were earned, while only two of the Danes' runs were earned.

St. Mary's utilized four pitchers in the affair, including starter Bob Gates, Rick Ferguson, Dave Adamson, and surprise package Mike Mudd. Gates pitched three innings of ball to give up four hits, walk one and strike out two. Ferguson relieved him and went 2-1 in the sixth, when he was hit in the chest by a line drive off the bat of Lloyd Smith. He was tagged for three hits, and struck out one. Dave Adamson finished the fourth frame, and went the fifth and a 1-3 of the sixth, giving up three hits, three walks and fanning three.

The Buc's big surprise was an unheralded freshman who took over Adamson's hill duties in the sixth inning with two out. Mudd fanned the first batter he faced, and when the Pirates grabbed their two-run lead in their half of the sixth, Mudd protected the Bucs with three straight strike outs in the seventh to end the game. Hal Clifford went the distance for the Danes, gave up seven runs, seven hits, three walks and fanned five.

Darryl Grantz and Mike Bjornidli shoved St. Mary's ahead in the Bucs' first at bats. Grantz made first and second on an overthrow by shortstop Keith Balinger, and came home on Bjornidli's single. Bjornidli went to second on Hosley's bad throw. He later scored on an error by centerfielder John Meek.

The Danes got one back in the third frame when John Brewer doubled and Keith Balinger singled him in, and then forged ahead 4-2 in the fourth inning. Hal Clifford started that frame out right with a triple, and scored on Pete Smith's single which followed Bruce Graham singled sending Smith to third, and both advanced a base on a bad throw by catcher Pat McElderry. Dave Low later singled Graham home.

Adamson made it 4-3 in the fourth, when he made first as Clifford dropped an infield pop fly. Adamson then stole second and third and scored on Rick Ferguson's single. Grantz and George Walker scored in the Pirates' half of the fifth to push St. Mary's ahead 5-4. Grantz was hit by a pitch and scored on Lloyd Smith's error which got Walker to first. McElderry then drove him in.

Fountain Valley then came within reach for the last time, when Smith walked, stole second, went to third on a wild pitch and then scored on Balinger's single to tie things at 5-5.

John Reilly and Ferguson both scored on some fatal Dane bobbles in the sixth inning. Reilly made first on a walk, got to second when Ferguson singled, and on a double steal went to third and advanced home on catcher Hosley's overthrow to third. Ferguson then went to third and Hosley, who again had the ball in an attempted play at home, again overthrew to get Ferguson, and the latter scored too.

Mudd then jammed any hopes of a Dane comeback with three straight strikeouts.

'Win It for Coach'

Without seeming to it or suggesting that the Fountain track team needs an incentive to win the Pikes Peak League District Meet, the Trojans will have a slight advantage over the other eight teams entered in today's track and field meet at Wildfield Stadium.

The Trojans, under the capable direction of Shultz, have developed into a strong, well-rounded squad that has beaten the defending PPL champion from Cheyenne Mountain in their last meeting.

It's a tough break for the Fountain mentor to be sidelined when his team is the favorite in the track meet at Wildfield today. Shultz is responsible for bringing a solid track program to the Fountain school and under his management, the Trojans have come into their own.

In previewing the possible developments in the today's meet for the PPL championship, the Trojans' chances of defeating the Cheyenne tracksters are the Indians' ace speedster and 800-yard relay anchor man, Bob Richardson, was scratched from the meet because of a leg injury.

This will narrow the field down in the search for the sprints honors between Fountain's speed merchant, Bob Carter, and Academy High's Bob Stockhouse. Although Stockhouse holds the District meet records in the 100 and 200-yard dash, the Big Blue sprinter has yet to beat the Fountain flash in competition this year.

It was reported Friday that Stockhouse's entry in the dashes is also in doubt. The Air Academy ace pulled a muscle recently and it will depend on a doctor's late decision and the weather conditions today whether he will be able to run.

Stockhouse established the PPL marks in both sprints with a blistering 9.9 seconds in the century race and was clocked 22.1 in the longer race. And the Kadet ace equalled his own mark in a meet last month at Florence when he turned in another 9.9 in the 100-yard dash.

Carter has yet to lose in either events and it's unlikely the Trojan will make an exception today.

The Indians, however, will make a strong showing in the field events with Ron Graham and Rick Stowell as the favorites to win all field events, except the pole vault.

Stowell has the opportunity to establish records in the shot put and discus which would withstand many years of competition. The Cheyenne strongman, who tips the scales at 220 pounds, has been undefeated this season in the shot put event.

Setting records is near routine for the All-State footballer. Stowell heaved the shot 56½ feet

Regis Runners Top Favorite In State Parochial Relays

The St. Mary's track team is feels it will take 60 points to slated to host the annual State Parochial Relays, formerly known as the St. Mary's Relays, at the Colorado College oval today beginning at 10 a.m.

Along with the host team, some nine squads will compete in the State Parochial Relays championship. The relays will kick-off with the preliminary track events and field event finals today at 10 a.m. and follow with the finals at 1:30 p.m.

There will be no admission charge and the public is welcome to attend.

Coach Ed Kintz of St. Mary's rates defending champion Regis Pueblo Catholic, Machebeuf and his own squad as the favorites in today's outing. Regis captured the title last with the Pirates finishing in third place.

Other teams slated to compete in today's meet are Mullen, St. Francis, Holy Family, Denver Christian and Denver Lutheran.

Although Kintz indicated his track team stands a good chance of defeating Regis and the other top contenders, the Pirates will have to perform at their best to top the well-rounded Raiders.

The Regis group will center their strategy around their ace runner, Paul Cattermole, who could turn the trick in three relays — mile, distance medley, 800-yard. Cattermole was clocked at 1:58.7 at the Colorado State University Relays in winning the 800-yard run.

And because the six relays events will be scored 10-5-3-4-2 points for the first five places, Cattermole's participation in the above three relays almost assures Regis 30 points. Kintz to get a new mark in the Pikes Peak Relays.

It's safe to say the shot put record will be broken today, the Cheyenne tracksters Mike Maestas of Salida set the record last year with a toss of 32-4, but Stowell was sidelined last season. Today's another day and the Cheyenne strongman will get his chance.

Graham also has the opportunity to snap two records. The Cheyenne trackster has bettered both the broad jump and high jump meet records. Graham's past performances include a leap of 21-4½ in the broad jump and 5-11½ feet in the high jump. Both marks surpass the meet records of 5-10 and 21-3.

All in all, 10 of the 14 track and field records should fall after today's District meet is over.

CC Game Postponed By Snow

The scheduled game in Gunnison between Colorado College and Western State College, Friday afternoon, was postponed until today because of snow on the WSC diamond. The two Rocky Mountain Conference teams are to play a double header today, instead.

This is the next-to-last series of the season for Coach Bob Johnson's Tigers, who need at least a split at Gunnison to sew up second place in the RMC standings.

Next week CC will finish out with a home game against league-leading Colorado State College on Tuesday and then they will have to wait a full week before the season's finale against CSC again, in Greeley.

The Washington Redskins average 36.84 yards per kickoff return to pace National Football League teams in 1963.

Houston's Craft May Be Canned

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Harry Craft, first and only manager of the Houston Colt .45s in the National League, will be replaced shortly by Coach Luman Harris, the San Diego Union's Phil Collier wrote Friday night.

Collier, who covers all major league games in Los Angeles for the Union—including the just concluded Houston-Los Angeles Dodger series—quoted a "reliable source" which he did not identify for his report.

Craft, whose baseball career as a player and manager spans 28 years, took over the Houston management when the franchise was created in 1962.

Houston finished eighth and ninth in 1962 and 1963 and presently is in ninth place.

Luman is in his 14th year as a coach in the major leagues, all of which have been spent as an aide to Paul Richards, general manager of the Houston club.

Richards and Luman were teamed in the minor leagues for some time before their stints in the majors.

Wyoming Whips Brigham Young

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP)—The University of Wyoming scored 14 runs in the eighth inning Friday to whip Brigham Young University 15-4 in a Western Athletic Conference baseball game.

Catcher Jerry Thompson hit a bases loaded home run and outfielder Jim Jones slammed a three-run homer during the wild inning during which 18 Cowboy batters went to the plate.

Southwest Loop Upset By Rumors

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Athletic directors and football coaches of the Southwest Conference said Friday that reports of squabbling among themselves over rules violations had been greatly exaggerated.

They also said that what may appear to outsiders as incompatibility and lack of confidence in each other did not exist.

There was no explanation, however, of why they have filed what may be a record number of complaints and brought an apparent crisis to the conference.

At a meeting held to make recommendations to the faculty committee, governing body of the conference, they said they were disturbed over the situation and want corrective action. They made no recommendation but sent Jess Neely of Rice and Abe Martin of Texas Christian to the faculty committee for a discussion of the situation.

The trouble appeared to have arisen when Southern Methodist charged that some members were circulating rumors that the school was being placed on probation for recruiting violations. "SMU" said the rumors, coming before the recruiting season opened, hurt its recruiting although it got a statement from the conference that it was not on probation.

Then followed what Secretary Howard Grubbs said was "a more than normal number of complaints." It has been indicated that there were more than 30 such charges, although Grubbs would not disclose the exact number.

Grubbs, who made the report for the athletic directors and coaches, said he did not know what action would be taken by the faculty committee, but that he would report at a conference Saturday what had been done.

Saskatchewan U. Planning Study of Athletic Ability

SASKATOON (AP) — The University of Saskatchewan plans to spend $250,000 and 15 years in an attempt to discover whether Canadian athletes are born or made.

The university said Friday that preliminary studies had been carried out over the past two years under grants from the National Fitness and Amateur Sport Council. The council has provided $19,000 to begin the main investigation.

Dr. W.A.R. Orban, director of the university's school of physical education, said the study could answer the question whether a good athlete is born or made. "We need to study children before the various factors that might promote or limit athletic ability become apparent, and then, as they become evident, follow through and relate them to the child's growth and development until age 19 or 20, when the degree of interest or ability in certain sports has been demonstrated," he said.

If we can discover how to create an interest in a certain area at an early age, we can help youngsters develop athletic capacities.

In the study 216 boys in the first grade at Saskatoon schools will be given tests each year until they reach the age of 19 or 20.

Goldsmith Nearly Out Of '500'

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Paul Goldsmith's chances of driving in the Indianapolis 500-mile race May 30 were virtually ended Friday by a court decision.

Federal Judge William E. Steckler ruled against him in his court action against the United States Auto Club.

Judge Steckler also dismissed Goldsmith's $75,000 damage suit against USAC President Thomas Binford and Henry Banks, director of competition. He left the suit alive as far as the organization itself is concerned.

Goldsmith, of St. Clair Shores, Mich., and Mexico City, was suspended from the USAC for one year last Nov. 5 for competing in a stock car race on the Riverside, Calif. track.

At stake in the Southern Indiana District Federal Court hearing was USAC's rule which requires a member driver to obtain permission to compete in a race not sanctioned by USAC.

Judge Steckler said the court was reluctant to insert itself into the inner workings of a voluntary non-profit organization. He also said he saw no evidence of a monopoly.

Goldsmith's lawyers indicated they would appeal to the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago.

American Marksmen Defeat West Germany

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP) — American marksmen defeated West German sharpshooters 5-1 in an international pistol and rifle team shooting contest which ended Friday.

The American team won all events on the first two days of the three-day contest. The Germans won the three-position rifle shooting at 300 meters with 4,505 out of 4,800 points Friday. The Americans scored 4,499.

Winning Money in 1962 Ruins Bob Goalby's Golf

By MIKE RECHT

Associated Press Sports Writer BELLEVILLE, Ill. (AP) — One of the worst things that ever happened to professional golfer Bob Goalby was winning too much money in 1962.

"I got the idea I could be the greatest golfer in the world," the handsome pro said Friday. Goalby, locked in a 1 1/2-year slump, has not been able to win much of anything since then. But all that may be over.

"I've had enough of that idea of being the greatest," he said. "I just want to be a good solid player who can make a living out of golf."

Goalby, 33, who turned pro in 1957, climaxed a steady rise on the Professional Golfers Association tour by winning $46,240 in 1962, fifth on the money list.

He won two tournaments and finished second in four others including the PGA championship. His performance earned him a place on the 1963 Ryder Cup team.

"I won all that money and I began trying new things, thinking it would make me even better," he said. "I began trying to swing like Sam Snead, who has one of the finest swings in the game. I tried to change my hip and shoulder action and other things."

"But all it did was foul me up. I messed up my timing and I haven't driven well since. The changes just made me tighten up and tense."

His performance in 1963 and this year show the sad results. He failed to win a tournament. In fact, his best finish was fourth and most of the time he was far back.

The 16 fastest cars will start in the Grand Prix.

In Elmhurst Meet O'Hara Scheduled

CHICAGO (AP) — Tom O'Hara of Chicago Loyola, world's fastest indoor mile, will make his second outdoor start in the 30th Elmhurst College invitational track meet Saturday.

O'Hara, who ran a meet record mile of 4:01 in the Drake Relays April 25, missed a scheduled appearance in the Illinois State College meet at Macomb, Ill. last Saturday because of flu.

The slender Loyola star, a prime American 1,500-meter hope in the Tokyo Olympics in October, plans about a 4:07 race Saturday.

O'Hara will be using the Elmhurst meet as a conditioner for appearances at Modesto and Compton, Calif. relays later this month.

Goalby's play hasn't improved in 1964—thus far. "I've gone through a phase and now I'm over it," he said confidently.

"Sure, it will be difficult to get my natural way back," he said. "It will take a while. I just have to concentrate on being natural and I'll be on my way back."

Jim Clark Leads Pack At Monaco

MONTE CARLO (AP) — Jim Clark, Scotland's world driving champion, led a field of speedsters into today's final time trials for Sunday's Grand Prix of Monaco.

Clark, driving a factory Lotus, posted the best time — 72 miles per hour—in Friday's preliminary trials over the twisting 1.9 mile course. The heats produced a pair of accidents which damaged cars driven by Bruce McLaren of New Zealand and Mike Hailwood of Britain.

McLaren's factory Cooper and Hailwood's BRM hit a retaining wall on a long downward grade. Neither driver was injured and both expect their cars to be repaired in time for the 100-lap grand Sunday.

Jack Brabham of Australia, in his own Brabham racer, placed second in Friday's warm-ups. Dan Gurney of Costa Mesa, Calif., was third. Phil Hill of Santa Monica, Calif., eighth, and Richie Ginther of Los Angeles, ninth.

The 16 fastest cars will start in the Grand Prix.

Three soccer players were killed Thursday when a truck overturned near Viota, 20 miles southwest of Bogota.

The players and some fans were returning to Viota after playing a game in Rafael Reyes. Four other persons in the truck were injured seriously.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Urban Renewal Administration announced Friday a $14,462,233 grant for work on an urban renewal project in Pittsburgh which will include a new stadium for professional baseball and football games.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark and Rep. William S. Moorhead, Pennsylvania Democrats, were advisers of the action. Formal announcement is expected next week from the agency.

The Pittsburgh Pirates of the National Baseball League and the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League will play their home games in the new stadium to be built as part of the 84-acre stadium urban renewal project.

Forbes Field, the present baseball and football stadium, will be razed for a University of Pittsburgh expansion program.

The grant will permit Pittsburgh officials to purchase the land, relocate residents and clear the site.

Brave's Kelley Listed Disabled

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves put rookie left-hander Dick Kelley on the disabled list Friday.

The 24-year-old pitcher has been suffering from a circulatory ailment in his throwing arm. A club spokesman said Kelley has been making progress and expects to start working out soon. He did not make the current Eastern swing with the club.

Members of French Nations Enter Pikes Peak Slalom

Four entrants from the French National Ski Team will add an International flavor to the Annual Pikes Peak Slalom this Sunday.

Now in Colorado and with entry blanks listing their classification as "A Elite," are Gaston Perrot, Michel Mignot, Pierre Stamas, and Georges Maduit.

All were 1964 members of the winning Olympic French National Ski Team and have submitted entries to the Pikes Peak race through Rip McManus, now stationed at Ft. Carson. McManus is listed as 17th in overall world standings and was a member of the U.S. Olympic team at Innsbruck this year.

McManus and the four Tri-Color entries will compete in the same classification Sunday.

Youngest of the Frenchmen is Michel Mignot, 24, a member of Honore Bonnet's French National Ski Teams in 1962 and 1963. While full details of Mignot's past race record are not known, he is considered to be a potential threat in any of the three ski events and with his greatest accomplishments yet to come.

Perrot is 25, and has been with the French National Team for the past three ski seasons. He competed at Chamontix in the F.I.S. World Alpine Championships and is an accomplished racer with daring and drive. Perrot can win in any event, but stands out in downhill competition.

Stomas has also been a member of the French National Team.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

GIRLS ARE NO LONGER GREEN

Mrs. L. H. writes: "Years ago, when young girls were always tired they were said to have green sickness. Can you explain what this condition was and why it was called green?"

Modern textbooks do not mention green sickness and the last time I wrote on this outmoded form of anemia was in 1947. Chlorosis, as the condition is called medically, was encountered frequently among girls between the ages of 14 and 17. The complexion assumed a green-yellow tinge, which accounted for its popular name green sickness.

Most victims complained of breathlessness and palpitation of the heart on exertion. Fainting occurred in severe cases. The best candidates for the disorder were city girls who were confined to badly lighted, unventilated quarters.

At the turn of the century, the petite, unmarried women led a cloistered life, she preserved her white skin by staying out of the sun and her slim waistline by eating dainty meals. These were the glamor girls of that era. After marriage, they became stronger and their skin color improved, which may have been the reason why the malady was dubbed "love sickness."

We know the anemia of chlorosis was brought on by dietary deficiencies, along with too little sun and outdoor exercise. Marriage solved the problem because the girl took advantage of her new freedom. There was less pressure on her to keep a trim figure so she ate better. In addition, she spent more time in the sun.

The modern girl with iron-deficiency anemia can be cured quickly with pills or capsules containing iron. But she seldom develops this ailment because she realizes the importance of eating balanced meals and enjoys the benefits of sun and fresh air in her various activities.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

Sleepyheads
L. R. writes: "What is the difference between narcolepsy and laziness?"

Reply
The first is an uncontrollable desire to sleep. This situation often is stimulated by emotions such as laughing or crying. The cause of narcolepsy is not known but a disturbance in the brain waves may be responsible. In this respect, the condition may be related to epilepsy. Laziness is a virtue, not a disease.

Smoke And Cancer
S. W. writes: "What is the ingredient in cigarettes that causes lung cancer?"

Reply
Tobacco smoke contains a complex mixture of hundreds of different chemicals, many of which are carcinogenic, especially the polycyclic aromatic hydrocarbons. These include tars and phenols. Radioactive polonium is the latest to be implicated.

Oversupplied
D. G. writes: "Our 6-year-old daughter was born with a third nipple, located about two inches below the right breast. Can this 'extra' be removed by surgery?"

Reply
Yes.

Tumors Of Larynx
C. A. J. writes: "Are polyps on the vocal cords usually malignant?"

Reply
Most simple polyps of the larynx are noncancerous.

Johnson Takes Daughter on Political Tour

By FRANCES LEWINE

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The father-daughter team of Lynda and Lyndon Johnson have been seeking recruits for a war against poverty in six states with touches of humor and tales of ancestors.

They have joshed each other and, in the process, exhorted applauding thousands to lend "heart and hand" in eliminating poverty from the land.

Side by side, the 53-year-old President, wearing a Texas hat, and his tall, 20-year-old daughter barnstormed farms and towns Thursday by plane, helicopter and car.

When President Johnson climbed on the back of a convertible at Knoxville, Tenn., his smiling daughter kicked off her shoes and joined him to talk to a crush of students from the University of Tennessee.

And Johnson time and again—with hoarse throat toward the end—reminded audiences that he came from humble beginnings and knew poverty first-hand.

Sitting on the broken concrete steps of a tenant farmer's home at Rocky Mount, N.C., he said: "I was born the son of a tenant farmer in a family of seven" and "my daddy worked on halves"—sharing profits with the landlord.

Johnson said that when his father died, "he left a hard-earned and frugally-saved $25."

The President declared that all he wanted for every family was "what my mother wanted for me, what every mother wants for her child—the chance for an honest living, an honorable job, and a decent future."

When Johnson couldn't use his own ancestors to gain rapport with the local crowds, he summoned those of his longtime Texas friend, Sam Rayburn, the late speaker of the House.

In Tennessee, he noted that Rayburn was born in Roane County in that state and that Tennessee gave the Republic of Texas its first president—Sam Houston.

Johnson proved he had close ties with Georgia by announcing on his arrival in Atlanta that "more than 100 years ago, my grandfather was elected sheriff of Henry County, Ga."

Besides that, his great-great-grandfather, John Johnson, was born in Oglethorpe County, near Mableton, Ga.

By the end of the long day, Lynda jokingly complained that her smooth-talking parent had "used all my lines about what I wanted youth to do."

So, she said, "I just want to tell you that I agree with my father which is something that not all young people always do."

Lynda suggested a practical beginning for an antipoverty program. "If everybody would just try to teach one person," she said, "it would make considerable inroads" in the problems of illiteracy.

Johnson laughingly said his daughter was a school dropout because she cut college classes to come on the two-day trip. But Lynda contended it was a "cram course" in such things as sociology and economics and especially in "physical fitness, trying to keep up with my father."

Once when the President whispered to her, Lynda admonished aloud. "Stop coaching me, dad—you'll get me in trouble."

All in all, Lynda proved herself quite capable of following in the footsteps of her campaign veteran parents and she got plenty of compliments.

One came from a woman running alongside the motorcade in Rocky Mount. "Hey, pretty face!" she called out to the President's daughter.

Indictment Lists Colorado Man

BOSTON, UPI — James S. Pratt of Littleton was indicted by a grand jury here Friday along with 25 other businessmen and politicians on charges of bribery.

Pratt was listed as public relations representative for Household Finance Corp. in the indictment, and was charged with offering and paying bribes.

Among the other defendants in the indictment were Massachusetts House Speaker John F. Thompson and former Speaker Charles Gibbs.

Earlier this spring, Littleton Dist. Judge Robert B. Lee ordered Pratt to leave Colorado to testify before the grand jury.

But the Colorado Supreme Court granted a stay of execution pending further order and required Pratt to post $2,500 bond.

Negro Vote Winners Face White Opponents

TUSKEGEE, Ala. (AP)—Two Negroes who won the Democratic nomination for county offices in Tuesday's primary now find themselves with white independent opponents.

William B. Ray and Herbert F. Ruff, both of Notasulga, qualified Thursday to run for office. Ray filed for a place on the Macon County School Board against Negro educator Dr. C. G. Gommilion, and Ruff qualified for the seat on the County Board of Revenue for which the Rev. V. A. Edwards, a Negro minister, won the Democratic nomination.

Records in the probate judge's office show both white men qualified before the May 5 deadline, as required by law in Alabama.

The Democratic nomination in the county generally is the same as election. Republicans generally do not put candidates up for office here.

However, Negroes have a voting majority in the county and, unless Negroes split their votes in the general election, there is little likelihood the white candidates will win.

Adams Sheriff Office Being Investigated

BRIGHTON (UPI)—The Adams County Sheriff's office was investigated this year over alleged "borrowing" from an office fund, it was reported Friday.

Dist. Atty. Marvin Dansky said he had assigned an investigator to look into the matter. Dansky refused further comment.

The Denver auditing firm of Dunham, Stephenson & Associates, auditing firm for the county, also did some checking. Herbert R. Dunham, a partner, said.

Dunham said the matters were "all straightened out" and that the problem appeared to be faulty handling of cash and checks.

Dunham conceded that an opportunity for fraud existed because of the faulty practices but that no evidence of it could be proven.

He said, however, that some "temporary borrowing" apparently had been in effect.

The probe was reportedly centered over the alleged overnight "loss" of $1,000 from a fund; several checks received from sheriff's sales not immediately deposited; excessive overtime payments to a staff member, and a cash voucher which bore the signature of Sheriff Guy Van Cleave but which was apparently not written by him.

Van Cleave said the entire matter was a "gross error."

"This is an election year and maybe this whole thing's a political kick," he said.

He is alleged to have shot Duane Weldon Reidell, 20, 1535 Mesta St. through the leg with a .45 pistol March 20. The incident is said to have happened in the 1300 block of Florence Avenue.

Judge David W. Enoch was on the bench and Jack Roeser appeared for the district attorney's office.

Change of Plea Made by Man on Assault Charge

Curtis Cathey Jr. changed his plea from innocent to one of guilty to assault with a deadly weapon in District Court Friday and Judge David W. Enoch set June 3 for pre-sentence investigation.

The trial date of June 9 was then vacated.

Cathey, 19, Ft. Carson, is accused of wounding Clarence Simmons, 25, 3600 N. Cascade with a knife April 16. The incident is said to have taken place in the vicinity of the Milt's Bar and Grill parking lot, 3 W. Colorado Ave.

Two Involved In Accident Fined by Judge

Two men involved in an accident April 16 on the Utah Interchange were found guilty of traffic violations and each received $15 fines Friday in Municipal Court.

Judge Allan Asher reduced a careless driving charge against John Dickson, Colorado College, to a speeding violation, and found Laurence Windle, 69, 6 McKinley Pl., guilty of failing to yield the right of way to the student. Both were granted 10-day stays of execution. Dickson was represented by attorney Gerald Bennett.

Mary Jane Cook, 38, 820 Vista Grande was found guilty of two speeding violations and a charge of making an improper turn. She was fined a total of $40.

Donald Shafer, 24, 3164 W. Colorado Ave., was also found guilty of speeding and was fined $15.

Alvin Cummins, 77, 418 Adelaide Pl., had May 15 set for his trial on a charge of failing to yield the right of way. Earlier in the Violations Bureau Cummins had signed a jury waiver.

In court Friday, he requested a trial by jury. When Judge Asher asked him why he'd signed the waiver, Cummins said he didn't read the paper he signed. The judge set July 7 for naming a jury trial date for the man, and requested he sign the necessary paper for the bureau. Later Cummins returned to the courtroom and said he didn't want a jury trial. The officer who had cited him had already been dismissed from court, so Cummins' trial had to be re-set.

Thelma Dillinger, 35, 2486 Yorktown Rd., failed to appear in court for her trial on a speeding charge and Judge Asher ordered her $15 bond forfeited.

Donald Shaw, 25, 1515 N. Tejon St., pleaded guilty to reckless driving and was fined $50. His right to drive in the city, except for employment purposes, was suspended for 15 days.

Fines were levied against others as follows: Alan Davis, 22, Rex Hotel, careless driving, $35; Samuel Reese, 34, Air Force Academy, reckless driving, $50, and Kerry Townsend, 16, 2819 Wood Ave., reckless driving, $25.

Beauty Pageant Set to Select Queen for Race

The Fashion Bar will sponsor a beauty pageant to select a queen and two aides for the "Continental Divide 250," a late model stock car race June 23 near Castle Rock.

Ben Langella, store manager, made the announcement following a meeting with race publicity director Barry Dolbear.

Langella has appointed Kathleen Cox, a former fashion model, to act as co-ordinator for the contest which is open to married or single women in the Rocky Mountain region who are more than 18 years of age. Women may register at the local store where they will receive official entry forms.

Langella said there will be no talent, swim suit, evening wear, or other kind of competition to enter. "We're looking for three beautiful girls to be the queen and aides for this race, not a comedienne or homemaker," he said. Contestants will be judged on poise, posture, charm, personality, and beauty of face and figure.

A panel of five judges will be named soon, to be made up of prominent local citizens.

The contest opens today and will close June 12. The three winners will make promotional trips to Denver, Pueblo, Cheyenne, and here. The race will be run at the Continental Divide Raceways near Castle Rock. Langella said it is expected to draw such name drivers as Parnell Jones, A. J. Foyt, Bobby Marston, and others.

The queen will present the winner of the race with a trophy and will also represent the race for the remainder of the year.

Judge Places Two Men On Probation

Two defendants were placed on probation in District Court Friday by Judge David W. Enoch.

The first was Douglas Richard Kreibich who pleaded guilty April 10 to burglary and larceny. A third charge of conspiracy was then dismissed by the district attorney's office.

Kreibich, 25, 305 Leta Dr., broke into the Musick Drug Co., 309 E. Fontanero St., Feb. 5 and stole drugs and other merchandise valued at a total of $908.47. Testimony was given by Police Officer George Folmer. The defendant and his mother, Mrs. L. Kreibich also took the stand.

The judge then gave Kreibich a suspended sentence in the State Reformatory and put him on probation.

Bennie Ray Wasson, 29, Ft. Carson received a deferred sentence and was granted probation.

Wasson was charged with the burglary of Milt's Bar and Grill, 3 W. Colorado Ave., March 19 and pleaded guilty April 10.

The defendant and James Caldwell of the police department both took the witness stand.

Jack Roeser represented the district attorney's office.

Large Well Brings $$

GREENSBURG, Kan. (AP)—This southwestern Kansas town has written a success story in the tourist business with a water well that didn't even accomplish its original purpose.

Back in 1887-89 the Santa Fe Railroad dug the well to supply water for its trains. The well, 109 feet deep and 32 feet in diameter, was cased with native stone quarried along the Medicine River, 12 miles south.

But the Rock Island Railroad won the race with Santa Fe to reach Greensburg so Santa Fe stopped at the county line. Until 1932 the well was used to supply water for household and commercial purposes.

A few years back Greensburg began promoting the site as "The Largest Hand-Dug Well in the World." Last year it attracted 100,000 visitors who left U.S. Highway 54 to peel over the rim at a pool of water 4 feet below.

The U.S. Department of Commerce, in a booklet titled "Your Community Can Profit From the Tourist Business," says this:

"One community in Kansas appeared to have nothing at all to interest tourists. However, some of its leaders hit on the idea of advertising its deep wells, claiming one of them to be the world's largest hand-dug well. One hundred thousand tourists see it every year.

"Merely by selling curios at the well site, the community has been able to finance a 1,900-square foot new Chamber of Commerce building."

TODAY'S COVER — In case you don't recognize some of the good junk pictured on today's cover, here's what's there: down the post, a Midland Railroad lantern, an English brewery horse brass, a ring with a ring, and an iron muffin pan. The large disk in foreground is the dome from City Hall here (removed because it was cracking up) of leaded gold and amber glass; the doors with tin inserts from an old pie cupboard, with a little brown jug, an iron muffin pan, a tin measuring can filled with last year's pussy willows; an ironstone butter dish topping a horseshoe. The Thonet bentwood chair holds a Kurer's mustard crock with an old Spanish key found in New Mexico. The painting is a primitive bought at Ross Auction for 50 cents and restored by artist Tom Reaney at a now priceless value. Lined up across, from left, are a Victorian crumb set (with initial "M" now considered a Mitchell heirloom) two railroad spikes, a coffee pot discovered in a ghost town dump, an iron trivet removed from an abandoned iron stove, an insulator turned deep purple, the apple peeler in the cover story, a set of six tin gelatin molds, a whiskey bottle, a cream-colored jug to hold wooden kitchen utensils, a round copper mold with a three-leaf clover design from England, another iron muffin pan which makes "fluted gems", leaning against a piece of Colorado "driftwood". To the right of the muffin pan is a bottle labeled Ute Chief Mineral Water Co., Manitou Springs. Hanging on the wrought iron stand is a tin melon mold for steamed puddings, and atop the stand is a siphon bottle from the old Cripple Creek Bottling Works. Its label is "CCBW Cripple Creek, Colo." The three pieces of wood in foreground are things. At their left is a rock.

Four-Wheel Drive Club Will Hold Race

The Pikes Peak Four-Wheel Drive Club will hold its second annual Kana on May 17. The Kana, which will start at 9 a.m. and last all day, will be held northwest of Colorado Springs off highway 85-87.

Spectators who wish to attend the race are advised to leave the freeway at the Garden of the Gods exit and drive west about a quarter of a mile. Signs will be posted giving directions to the site of the race.

All four-wheel drive vehicle owners have been invited to enter the race and will be classed according to their vehicles. There will be cross country, barrel and drag races. Entry fees will be $5 for cross country, $4 for barrel races, and $1 for drag races.

Over $1,500 in prizes plus trophies will be presented to winners in each class. Admission for spectators will be 25c. Door prizes will be awarded.

Those who desire more information about the Kana may write the Pikes Peak Four-Wheel Club, Box 4192, or call Mrs. Pat Annis, secretary, at 633-4966.

The Pikes Peak Four-Wheel Club grew out of the reorganization in 1961 of the Pikes Peak Jeep Posse. The purpose of the club is social and members assist in emergencies and with charitable organizations. Club members also perform rescue work. The club has approximately 80 members who own various types of vehicles and meet every second Tuesday at the West Side Community Center and plan trips for the following Sunday.

Refreshments are served at the meetings and at various times Pot Luck Dinners are planned. Motion pictures and speakers are also part of the entertainment.

Polo School Slated Here This Month

A Polo School, sponsored by the United States Polo Association, will be held at the Colorado Springs Polo Club, Colorado Springs, Colorado, May 18 to 23.

Designed to train and encourage young riders and further train beginners in the game, the week-long seminar will cover all phases of the sport. Daily activities will run from 10 A.M. to 4 P.M. and will include the selection, care and rules. A large part of each day will be devoted to riding and hitting.

There is no charge for the Polo School — instruction, club facilities, ponies, etc. will be free. Students from out of town will only be expected to provide their own room and board and personal gear such as boots and mallets.

The Polo School at Colorado Springs will be under the direction of Robert Skene of California, the only 10-goal player in the United States today. Mr. Skene is a superb rider who possesses absolute and complete understanding of the game. He is noted for his great interest in encouraging the beginner and low goaler.

Further information about the Polo School at Colorado Springs may be obtained by writing Major Robert M. Ehrlich, 2525 Sycamore, Broadmoor, Colorado Springs, Colorado.

Students Get Instructions By Recording

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Seven students are scribbling obediently at The Franklin Institute these days, their writing dictated by a measured, recorded voice 23,000 miles out in space.

"Now . . . you will write sludge," the voice intones, and obediently the seven volunteer students write "sludge."

"Now . . . you will write moose," and again, seven pencils scribble away.

The dictation is coming from Syncom II, a tiny satellite roughly the size of a bass drum traveling along a 24-hour orbit in space. The sound transmission has made the round trip from earth and back again in one-third of a second.

The students are taking part in a classic method of testing voice circuits for intelligibility. The results of the tests will be compared against the original word list transmitted to Syncom from one of several earth stations. The list was prepared by Harvard and represents the most common vowel and consonant combinations of the English language.

Teletype, test tones and facsimile photos also are being relayed in the test being conducted by The Franklin Institute labs for the U.S. Army Satellite Communications Agency.

SNEAKY SNAKE

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Mrs. Brenda Pagel, a young South African housewife, plugged a drainpipe outside her farmhouse full of bullet holes—and then dragged out a very dead, five-foot long cobra.

Mrs. Pagel said she opened her front door and nearly walked into the snake which reared to full length only about a foot away. She rushed into the house to get her husband's revolver and returned to find the cobra disappearing up the drainpipe. Despite the fact she had never fired a gun, Mrs. Pagel managed to pull the trigger, filling the pipe, and the snake, full of holes

Mockingbird At Vista Vue

In Universal's "To Kill a Mockingbird," starting Wednesday at the Vista-Vue Theatre, producer Alan Pakula and director Robert Mulligan surrounded star Gregory Peck with no less than six well-known Broadway stage performers in key supporting roles.

Appearing prominently in the screen version of Harper Lee's Pulitzer Prize novel are 9-year-old John Megna ("All the Way Home"), Rosemary Murphy ("Period of Adjustment"), Frank Overton ("Big Fish, Little Fish"), Alice Ghostley ("The Thurbur Carnival"), Estelle Evans ("Take a Giant Step") and Brock Peters ("Kwamina" and "The King of the Dark Chamber").

Commented director Mulligan with a grin:

"We're setting a new mileage record for an off-Broadway production."

The second feature on the program, "Gypsy," stars Rosalind Russell and Natalie Wood.

Garner, Day At 8th St.

What is a Wheeler Dealer? He's a man who knows you don't go wheeling and dealing for money — you do it for fun. Money is just the way to keep score.

Merle Oberon and Curt Jurgens are starred in the second feature, "Love and Desire."

Fun is exactly what you'll get when you see "The Wheeler Dealers," starting Sunday at the 8th St. Drive-In. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's hilarious spoof of a wheeler-dealing Texan who takes over Wall Street and a career girl who takes over the Texan.

Lee Remick in her first comedy, following on her Academy nomination portrayal in "Days of Wine and Roses," plays Molly Thatcher, the girl who is interested in figures. James Garner is Henry Tyroon who is interested in hers. Co-starred are Phil Harris, Chil Wills, Jim Backus, Louis Nye, John Astin, Elliott Reid and Patricia Crowley as Eloise, Molly's roommate who has her own smiling way of getting a raise.

Aircadia Has Double-Bill

In America's frontier days the mail order catalogue was the source of supply for almost everything, and in the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer outdoor drama, "Mail Order Bride," starting Sunday at the Aircadia Drive-in this convenient catalogue furnishes a wife for a recalcitrant young hellion.

The situation is brought about when ex-lawman Buddy Ebsen rides into the 1890 frontier town of Congress, Montana, to tame Keir Dullea, son of his dead friend. If he refuses to marry Lois Nettleton, a young widow with a small boy, who has answered Ebsen's advertisement and whom he hopes will prove a settling influence on Dullea, the latter will lose his father's ranch to which Ebsen holds the deed.

Dullea therefore marries Miss Nettleton, but it is a marriage in name only. She helps him rebuild his ramshackle ranch house and gradually an affinity grows between them although Dullea is only waiting for a way to get rid of Ebsen before putting an end to his mock marriage. It is when Dullea's cattle-thieving friend, Warren Oates, burns down the ranch house in a blaze which comes close to taking the life of Miss Nettleton's young son that the story takes a tensely dramatic turn.

STARTS WEDNESDAY — Henry Fonda and Cliff Robertson star as bitter opponents for the presidential nomination in "The Best Man," which opens Wednesday at the Chief Theatre.

Chief to Get 'Best Man'

The Behind-the-Scenes intrigue at our national political conventions, based on Gore Vidal's Broadway stage hit "The Best Man," starring Henry Fonda and Cliff Robertson as the leading contenders for the political nomination, opens Wednesday at the Chief Theatre.

At the national political convention in Los Angeles, the leading contenders for Presidential nomination are Henry Fonda, who is being reunited with his estranged wife to gain the support of the women voters, and Cliff Robertson a senator who is planning to use unfair tactics to discredit his opponent, both men vying for the endorsement of Lee Tracy, a wily ex-president.

Robertson holds a file on Fonda which proves the latter is emotionally unstable, but Fonda's manager comes up with a man who claims to have proof of Robertson's homosexual past while in the Army.

Fonda is reluctant to use the story against Robertson, but Tracy urges him to fight smear with smear.

Comedy Hit At Sky Vue

From top cowboy to top lover boy — that's the jump that James Garner has been making. In fact, in his latest role as co-star of 20th Century-Fox's romantic comedy release, "Move Over, Darling," Garner is so successful as a lover that he has two wives — none other than Doris Day and Polly Bergen. The CinemaScope De Luxe color comedy is now at the Skyvue Drive-In Theatre.

Having two wives is a situation that is somewhat disconcerting not only to handsome Jim and his two wives, but also to Thelma Ritter, who plays his mother, to Fred Clark as the hotel manager who must put up the husband with two wives and to a number of other people who get involved, including cameo star Chuck Connors, Don Knotts and Elliott Reid.

One might think that a complication like having two wives at one time might tempt Garner to want to return to the simple life of a cowboy, such as Maverick. But not Garner.

"The Cheyenne and Maverick series gave me the exposure and the experience any actor has to have these days," he says. "I was a lucky boy but I wanted to parlay that luck into something beyond being a TV cowboy hero. I wanted to try something different... especially I wanted to try comedy."

Suspense Hit Now at Ute

Love and suspense vie with each other against a background of breathtaking beauty and screaming terror in "Dark Purpose," now showing at the Ute Theatre. The film is bright with the shining performances of Shirley Jones, Rossano Brazzi, George Sanders, Georgia Moll and Micheline Presle. It was filmed high up on the Amalfi coast in the Ravello area. Most of the action takes place in the cliffhanging Villa Cimbroni.

Shirley Jones plays the dramatic role of a beautiful woman who falls dangerously in love with an aristocratic killer.

Rossano Brazzi adds to his usual part of the Latin lover with a portrayal of a husband torn between his mentally ill wife and a new love he will kill to attain.

George Sanders is called upon to play an art appraiser who brings Miss Jones, as his assistant, to Brazzi's villa to appraise the owner's art treasures. It is this meeting which starts the romance that mounts to the top of suspense entertainment.

Georgia Moll is Brazzi's mentally-ill wife.

Micheline Presle, as Brazzi's mistress, raises the drama to still stronger intensity.

JUST ROLLING IN IT — Catherine Spaak is covered with money in this modest scene from Joseph E. Levine's "The Empty Canvas," opening Wednesday at the Peak Theatre. She co-stars with Bette Davis and Horst Buchholz in the unusual love story based on Albert ("Two Women") Moravia's best selling novel.

'Flies' at Peak Theatre

"Lord of the Flies," Peter Brook's highly acclaimed film based on William Golding's best-selling novel, is now showing at the Peak Theatre.

Filmed with a cast of 40 non-professional schoolboys headed by James Aubrey, Tom Chapin, Hugh Edwards, Roger Elwin and Tom Gaman, the picture narrates the dramatic and savage changes that occur to a group of English boys who are evacuated from their homeland during an atomic war only to be stranded on a deserted island without any adult supervision.

"Lord of the Flies," an Allen-Hodgdon Production, was adapted for the screen and directed by Peter Brook and is being released through Walter Reade-Sterling, Inc.

Fun & Girls At Starlite

Combining the talents of fifty of Hollywood's most eye-filling cuties and seven famous kings of comedy, "Girls-A-Poppin'" opens Wednesday at the Starlite Theatre. Starring roles are in the hands of Janice Carter, Susan Stewart, Joyce Kawamoto, Nina Share, Dee Dee Carter and Laine Carlin.

The raucous comedy reveals the experiences of the Dinky Detective Agency as they pursue a world-famous scientist involved in a series of rib-tickling adventures always concerning one or more of the bosomy beauties. The fact that the girls are usually costumed or rather un-costumed to show their better features spurs the relentless searchers to feats of stirring realism.

The second feature, "Beauty and The Body," is a thrilling experience in the world of beauty and adventure.

Jones Goes To Broadmoor

The year 1964 was hardly a day old when it became evident that this was to be the year of great honors for Tony Richardson's Eastmancolor triumph "Tom Jones," the hilarious comedy from Henry Fielding's humorous novel which is now at the Broadmoor Theatre.

"Tom Jones" was given the Oscar for "Best Picture Of The Year".

In addition, its star Albert Finney, who plays the title role, was also voted Best Actor of the Year, and its Producer-Director, Tony Richardson, won the Best Director Award.

The Finney-Richardson team has also been highly honored in legitimate theatre circles because of the Broadway success "Luther" in which the former appears in the title role and the latter directed.

The motion picture "Tom Jones" was adapted for the screen from the Fielding original by John Osborne, and its brilliant cast also includes Susannah York, Hugh Griffith, Dame Edith Evans and Joan Greenwood. It was filmed in its entirety in English villages and countryside which have changed very little from the country in very little from the country in which Fielding envisioned it some 200 years ago.

Cooper Gets Musical Hit

Now in its second week, Rodgers and Hammerstein's Pulitzer prize-winning musical, "South Pacific" will play through Tuesday at the new Cooper Theatre.

Filmed in De Luxe color with full four-track stereophonic sound, "South Pacific" has been receiving the warmest praise from the patrons and many have commented that they have seen it over and over again.

"South Pacific" is the love story of a U. S. Navy nurse, played by Mitzi Gaynor, who falls in love during World War II with a French plantation owner, portrayed by Rossano Brazzi, on a Pacific Island. A concurrent love story concerns a Marine Officer, played by John Kerr, and a native girl, played by France Nuyen.

Ray Walston is the fast-talking Luther Billis and Juanita Hall portrays the role of "Bloody Mary" as she did in the original stage-version. The songs, familiar to everyone, include "Some Enchanted Evening," "I'm gonna Wash that Man Right Outa My Hair," "Happy Talk" and a dozen others equally as famous.

Popular George Bayer's last golf victory came in the 1960 St. Petersburg Open.

War Is Fun In New Film

George Marshall of "How the West Was Won" fame has taken a most unlikely story of 'coward's in war and made it into what well may be one of the most hilarious stories ever filmed. If General Sherman could have seen the new picture "Advance to the Rear," which starts Wednesday at the Cooper and stars Glenn Ford, Stella Stevens and Melvyn Douglas, he would have changed his famous dictum of "War is Hell" to "War is Hilarious!"

This rib-tickling film tells of the Rebs and Union soldiers of the Civil War, the latter represented by as an outrageous and outlandish a company of misfits as ever turned a debacle into a glorious victory, with a glamorous southern Mata Hari thrown in for good measure.

Sequences you are not likely to forget include one in which the foot soldiers attempt to learn the art of mounting and riding horses; another in which the entire company, having literally lost their pants, "ski" down a dry hillside on barrel staves clad in underwear to take the renegade camp by surprise; and the uproarious climax in which they fight a wing-ding battle with homemade rockets, slingshots and a catapult hurling crockery. No war has ever been fought under such inauspicious circumstances.

Aiding the stars in making "Advance to the Rear" wonderful escape entertainment are Joan Blondell, Alan Hale, James Griffith and Jim Backus.

Straus Hit Next at Ute

"The Chocolate Soldier" is next in the current series of Golden Operettas showing at the Ute Theatre on consecutive Thursdays with continuous showings beginning at 1 p.m.

The Oscar Straus operetta revolves about a married couple who are the musical comedy toasts of Vienna. The success they enjoy on the stage is unfortunately, not repeated in their marital life for Miss Stevens, cast as Maria, is a flirtatious wench, and Nelson Eddy, as Karl, is a husband consumed by jealousy.

It is not until Karl hits upon the resource of masquerading as his own rival that he is able to test his wife's faithfulness, a test which is fraught with hilarious complications.

Miss Stevens' rich voice is heard in such selections as "Gypsy Cafe," "The Trout," and an aria from the original French version of "Carmen."

Eddy's solos include "While My Lady Sleeps," and "Song of the Flea," while the stars sing "My Hero," "Evening Star," "Seek the Spy," "The Presentation," "Chocolate Soldier" and the Finale.

The last two Golden Operettas in the series will be Sigmund Romberg's "Girl of the Golden West" May 21 and Rudolf Friml's "Rose Marie" on May 28.

A third and bonus feature has been added to the regular program for tonight's showing at the 8th St. Drive-in Theatre.

The first feature, "Take Her She's Mine" stars James Stewart and Sandra Dee and is filmed in color. Second on the program, "Marilyn" tells the tragic story of Marilyn Monroe. The third and bonus feature, "Capture That Capsule" is a science fiction story of today's fight for outer space.

No extra admission is charged for the bonus hit.

NEXT AT COOPER — Stella Stevens and Glenn Ford start in "Advance to the Rear," comedy hit which opens a limited engagement Wednesday at the Cooper Theatre.

Three Films At Starlite

A third feature has been added to the regular program at the Starlite Drive-in Theatre for tonight's showing only.

First on the big program, John Delgar and Barbara Joyce are starred in "Hothead." The second feature is a thriller filmed

Archers Hold First Outdoor Meet of Year

The first outdoor field shoot by local archers was held by the Big Horn Bow Hunters at their range in the Black Forest, Sunday.

A field or roving round was shot. The scoring is similar to the Indoor Flint Round but the distances and target sizes vary considerably.

A standard round consists of 14 targets varying from 20 feet to 80 yards. Target size varies from 6 to 24 inches.

The courses are laid out somewhat like a golf course in that after completing 14 targets the archers are back in the vicinity of target number one. A major difference, however, is that the archers try to find terrain that is wooded and hilly so that targets can be set up that simulate hunting conditions by requiring shots between trees and up and down hill.

There are archery tournaments scheduled each weekend of the summer either here or at Denver or Pueblo. Sunday some of the club members plan to journey to Rye, Colorado and participate in a money shoot. The following Sunday a 56 target field invitational tournament is scheduled at the Air Force Academy.

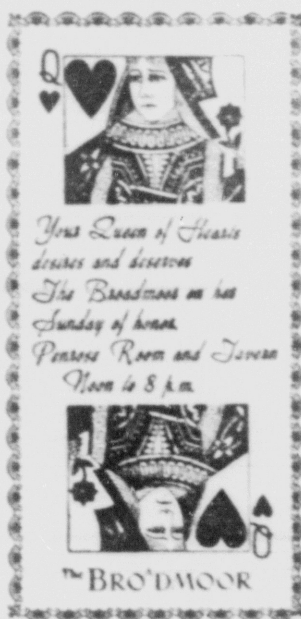

This past Sunday, the archers competed for medals. The winners in the various classes were:

Class 400: 1 Mike Steger, 458; 2 Chuck Wertz, 451.

Class 325: 1 Russ Rowley, 380; 2 Henry Holland, 377; 3 Jim Ward, 373.

Class 250: 1 Stan Smith, 314; 2 Leo Harlan, 306; Ken Stanko, 284.

Class 175: 1 Betty Holland, 202; 2 Frank Gimble, 183; 2 Casey Malmberg, 183; 3 Iris Rowley, 177.

Eagle 8's Name Officers: Lorig's Opens New Dept.

The square dance class at the Eagles Lodge held a business meeting last Tuesday evening and chose "Eagle 8's" as the name of their club. The following were elected officers: President, Jerry and Katherine Hall; Secretary, "Pinky" and Marianne Graham; Treasurer, Bryce and Jo Henricks. Visitors were Galen and Ethel Carpenter of Phoenix and Colorado Springs and it is hoped they come often. They have long been members of Pikes Peak Aerie and plan to be in the region for the next few months.

Folk Singers Head for Ute

Making their screen debut in 20th Century-Fox's tune-filled comedy, "The Young Swingers," are The Sherwoods, a musical group of two. They are blue-eyed, red-haired, 20-year-old Karen Gunderson and tall, blonde, 22-year-old John Merritt, both of Pasadena City College.

Exponents of folk style singing, they first met at social functions at school, each singing individually. Karen, a sorority girl, and John, a fraternity man, decided to combine their talents as a group. There was a third member, Al Parker, who at first worked with John and later with Karen. It was as a trio that they made their splash as club dates that led to a recording contract with Horizon Records.

However, shortly after being signed for "The Young Swingers" Al was suddenly called on and John were left to carry on.

In "The Young Swingers" The Sherwoods are featured with fellow recording artists Rod Lauren, Molly Bee, Gene McDaniels and Jack Larson.

A subject of particular interest to all Boy Scouts and their families, "Jamboree at Marathon," serves as an ideal companion featurette to "The Young Swingers."

Lorig's, 107 South Tejon, held open house Sunday afternoon for officers and callers, to show their new merchandise for square dancing. Several of the women modeled the beautiful new dresses and shoes, and Mr. and Mrs. Lorig and the employees modeled the new styles in Western wear. Bill Wilson MC'd the style show. Coffee, punch, and wafers were served. Mr. Lorig has named the new department the "Hoedown Balcony," and everyone is invited to go in and browse. Now is a good time to be thinking about the new outfits for the Festivals and Convention coming up soon.

Six sets of dancers were graduated from Deane Serena's class in Pueblo last week, and they have joined either Buttons and Bows or High Nooners, and most of them were at the Buttons and Bows dance last Saturday night — real good dancers and a welcome addition to the clubs.

Dancers are reminded again of the Memorial Day Weekend Square Dance Vacation at Palmer Lake.

Jed Pens Play About Lincoln

Buddy Ebsen expects to climax a 20-year labor of love in the not-too-distant future by enacting the role of Abraham Lincoln.

The snub-nosed star of "The Beverly Hillbillies" on the CBS Television Network has already been measured by "Hillbillies" makeup man John Sylvester for what in his case is the first requirement for the part: a false nose of Lincolnian prominence.

Ebsen's portrayal of The Great Emancipator will be the result of an avid interest he developed two decades ago in the life of George B. McClellan, the Union Civil War general.

Last year Ebsen put the finishing touches to his manuscript of "The Champagne General," a play dealing with McClellan's relationship with Lincoln during a year-and-a-half period of the war.

"Naturally, I wasn't working on the play steadily or even regularly for those 20 years," says Ebsen. "It had to be a spare-time thing, and it was as much a job of historical research as of writing."

The lanky, easygoing actor contemplates first producing "The Champagne General" on the London stage and then adapting it for a feature picture to be produced by his own company Turquoise Productions. In any event, he's reserving the Lincoln part for himself.

Ebsen reveals that it is his play that is prompting his forthcoming summer trip to Europe.

Yum-Yum From Behind the Scenes

BUILDING THE SET—Bishop Nash, who is in charge of set design and production for Civic Players, is shown on the ladder, and is being assisted by Capt. Charles

Roades, who plays "Hogan" in "Under the Yum Yum Tree," and Trina DeLaney, who will appear as "Robin." (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

The visiting troupe includes Roland Winters, Nancy Coleman, James Kirkwood Jr. and Nancy Donohue, and is being directed by Elaine Perry. The production following a run here plays Capetown and Durban.

Buddy Ebsen of "The Beverly Hillbillies" on the CBS Television Network recently finished writing his second play, a Civil War drama.

Contact Lenses Lay Egg Where Chickens Concerned

By MURRY SINCLAIR

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Contact lenses are not for the birds. Tucson chicken grower Wesley H. McCartney has reached this conclusion after trying them on 2,000 layers.

As far as he is concerned, the rose-colored glasses laid an egg.

The theory was that the lenses would curb cannibalism. By distorting the chicken's vision, the lenses would prevent it from knowing when another chicken was wounded.

But the chickens developed an eye infection, McCartney said it could have led to blindness.

He preferred cannibalism.

McCartney got the idea from Dr. Frank Rollins, extension poultry specialist at the University of Arizona, who told of experiments being tried in various parts of the nation.

The idea is good, growers agree.

In theory, the plastic eye covers can be installed when the chicks are eight weeks old and remain in place for the life of the bird.

McCartney has 90,000 layers. He figures he loses $20,000 a year from birds being pecked and trampled to death.

Contact lenses for the whole flock would cost him only $2,800. Putting the plastic covers in the chickens' eyes would cost another cent per bird.

Even if the lenses were only 50 per cent effective, McCartney figured he would save $10,000 with an investment of only $2,800.

In addition, there would be savings in the feed bill, energy requirements, stress, labor and egg breakage.

SOUND CUES — Jerry Bills, left, in charge of sound effects, watches Milton Slosky as he plays the cues as the play progresses.

YUM-YUM

The people in the make-up and the costumes take the bows when the final curtain falls on Civic Players productions, and then it's back to work for the people who never get in front of the sets. They are the ones who create the illusionary world on stage. They do it with lights and canvas, paint and sweat, imagination and little things that lie around the house. The crews are working extra hard for the Civic Players production of "Under the Yum Yum Tree" which will be presented Monday through Saturday at the Fine Arts Center. And like the actors, the people who work behind the scenes come from all walks of life and volunteer their services because they enjoy the work. The Civic Players Box Office will open at 10 a.m. Monday at the Chamber of Commerce Building and will be open at that time throughout the week. Reservations can be made by calling 633-3003.

BALLOON INFLATION

NEW YORK (AP) — The toy balloon industry is benefiting from a bit of business inflation thanks to the Broadway farce, "Any Wednesday."

One hundred balloons are used as props at each performance, another 500 are given out as audience souvenirs. Getting them ready and passing them out provides work for six men.

By LEISURETIME STAFF

We don't know that it happened this way, but after hearing the news from down in Sioux Falls, S. D., we kind of figured a couple of men ended up with some pullman cars on their hands and were trying to figure out what to do with them.

We get a mental picture of them sitting there, ties loosened, shirts unbuttoned, sweat dripping from their faces and a straight shot of alkali water in front of them.

"We gotta do somethin' with em," one man grumbles.

"They're too big to put under a Christmas Tree," another said.

"Hey," a third popped up, "let's give em to LBJ."

"LBJ, Smell-b-j," the fat one puffing the cigar said. "He's a Democrat. Democrats I don't like."

"What are we goinna do, even the girl scouts don't want em. We just can't let em sittin' there blockin' the street like that."

"The way I feel, I could sleep in em."

"Hey, that's an idea," the little man with the ivy league glasses said. "Let's sleep in em."

"Schmuk," the fat man said. "That's what you got a bed for."

"Oh," the little man said. "Well, maybe we could let someone else sleep in em."

"Idiot! Dolt!" and other such expletives, "who we goinna let sleep in em. Bummers? Tramps? Gangsters? Box cars they got for sleeping. Pullmans they don't need. Ain't nobody else goinna sleep in trains that don't go nowhere. That's stupid," the fat man said biting his cigar in half and swallowing hard.

"I like to sleep in trains," the little fellow said sheepishly.

"You! You! You like to watch television too. How'd you ever get to be vice president of this company anyhow?" The fat man asked.

"I married your daughter, Dad, remember?"

"Ach, How can I forget?"

"Well, I do like to sleep in trains. I remember when I was traveling I never minded buying a ticket to take a ride on a train because I liked to sleep on trains. It's nice. Lot's a guys used to tell me they liked to sleep on trains because they slept better that way. Really," the little said dreamily.

"Hey," the fat man brightened and lit another cigar with a red-hot coal he held in his hand.

"That's an idea. An idea you finally got MY son-in-law," he beamed. "We'll make it into a motel."

"A motel? Now you're the one who's crazy. A motel? Whatta you goinna call it, a TRAIN-TEL? Ha-Ha. And instead of maids you'll have a red cap. I suppose Ha-Ha. And you'll have a lounge car instead of a lobby and... and... Oh, you break me up."

"Idiot! Nut! Crazy! Fink!" etc. etc. etc. "A million dollar idea he comes up with and he laughs. Laughs! Why not all that? Why Not?"

We don't know why not, but they did it. Really.

The Sioux Chief Traintel is located just off U. S. Interstate 29 near Sioux Falls. It consists of two pullmans and one roomette car offering 38 sleeping rooms with 44 berths. Individual compartments have the usual upper and lower berths, private washrooms and air-conditioned comfort.

A standard coach serves as the office and a "lounge" for "passengers." An ex-waiter from the train "City of San Francisco" serves as the Red Cap for the train that goes nowhere.

And here's the kicker: to make things more realistic for those who like to sleep on trains, a tape recorder pipes "Clickity Clack, Clickity Clack" through each compartment while the air conditioners are installed under the floor so that everything seems like the real thing.

Which leads one to wonder, what's next? Planetells for people who like to sleep in planes? Boattels for people who like to sleep in boats? Officetels for people who like to sleep in offices?

That's all well and good for people who like to sleep in things like that. But what about the people who like to sleep in the nude?

SALLY, the Jaycees girl Friday (also Saturday, Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday), was a little put out with us last week. She complained that by mentioning CLAY BANTA's redhaired secretary, we gave the impression the rest of the lovely girls down there paled by comparison. We didn't mean that and we explained to SALLY that all she would have to do was dye her hair red. Her only comment was "But I've already dyed it blonde." To which we have no further comment.

MAYOR HARRY HOTH seems to have his problems when it comes to parliamentary procedure. In council sessions, if he handles the gavel too loosely, COUNCILMAN WILLIAM BECKER admonishes the Mayor with comments such as, "I don't want to say anything but you're running the meeting..." Or if he handles it too strictly COUNCILWOMAN BETTY KROUSE laments that HARRY is "frightening me." Tuesday, the MAYOR decided to stick to parliamentary procedure and carefully explain the ground rules. He promptly lost a future vote and a current taxpayer. After some discussion, one man in the rear jumped up and started to speak. "You'll have to step to a microphone and..." the MAYOR began. "I think my voice is loud enough," the man said, interrupting his honor. "And you're out of order," the MAYOR said. "Someone else has the floor." To which the man, his voice loud and clear retorted "sorry, Mr. Mayor, I'll stay out of order. I move back to the county." Nobody likes an orderly meeting anyway HARRY.

Handles parents hang on their children may sound funny, but cute at the time but can cause no end of pain to the children in later life. On everyone's list (those who collect odd names) is the famous Houston twins, IMA and URA HOGG. Bill LEAR, who manufactures aircraft fittings in Los Angeles, named his daughter SHANDA. Locally we have PECULIAR GRUNDY. In West Virginia, we knew a family by the name of WIND who named their four sons, you guessed it, NORTH, SOUTH, EAST and WEST. So help us! But the one that takes the cake is the one CC-Professor GEORGE McCUE came across in his research for a book he plans: you'll remember such names as Faith, Hope and Charity given girls during the Puritan days? We don't what days spawned the name of the man PROF. McCUE discovered and we won't guess. The Name: FORNICATION BROWN.

And with that we'll end

STUDENTS' SHAKESPEARE

STRATFORD, Conn. (AP)—A nine-week season of performances is being given at the American Shakespeare Festival theater for 107,000 school students.

The scholastic venture was launched seven years ago and grown steadily since. Groups from Maine to Maryland are taking part in this season's schedule. Two plays are exhibited, "Hamlet," and "Much Ado About Nothing."

There are only 50 Americans per 1,000 population in business for themselves today, compared with 70 out of 1,000 in 1948.

ARTS CHRONICLE by John Fetter

Next Season's Opera Selections Proposed

OPERAS — Among operas proposed for the next season are Gounod's Faust, Wagner's Flying Dutchman, Mozart's Marriage of Figaro, Herbert's Naughty Marietta, Gilbert & Sullivan's Ruddigore, Offenbach's Tales of Hoffmann, Strauss' Die Fledermaus, and Puccini's Tosca.

Those in the Pikes Peak Region and Colorado Springs who are interested in opera — and there is a growing number of patrons — may indicate their preferences, or other suggestions, by writing to the opera director, Dr. J. Julius Baird, 1623 N. Cascade Ave., or to the Colorado Springs Opera Assn., 519 N. Tejon St.

POETRY FELLOWSHIP — The Poetry Fellowship of Colorado Springs honored Laurie Margaret Perry at a tea last Monday. Many of the members were eager to see her during her brief stay in the city. Miss Perry has been teaching English and Spanish in Panama, and is to leave soon to teach in Middlebury College in Middlebury, Vt. The tea was held last Monday afternoon in the Guild Room of the Grace Episcopal Church. Decorations and refreshments, both with a Spanish-American touch, were arranged by Mrs. Laurence Field and her committee.

The regular meeting of the group will be held in the same room next Tuesday, May 13, at 7:30 p.m. The business meeting will include election of officers. The program will give the results of the Fellowship contests for light and serious verse. The critical reports of the judges will be read, and awards will be presented. This is the last of the regular meetings until September.

MUSIC COMPETITION — A Composers Conference will be held at the Dallas Public Library February 6-8, 1965 with GUNTHER SCHULLER as moderator. Manuscripts for solo or orchestral compositions may be sent to Composers Conference, Fine Arts Department, Dallas Public Library, Dallas, Texas by October 15, 1964.

Manuscripts should not carry the name of the composer, but the name should be enclosed on a separate sheet of paper. The manuscripts will be submitted to the screening committee who will select the composers to be invited to participate in the conference. Manuscripts will be returned to the owner provided return postage is enclosed. However, the Library cannot assume responsibility if manuscripts are lost. Only scores should be sent; parts will be requested for those compositions chosen for performance.

Members of the screening committee are as follows: Walter Hendl, associate conductor of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra; Paul Pisk, professor of music and composer, Washington University, St. Louis, Mo.; Maurice Peress, conductor of the Corpus Christi Symphony Orchestra.

The Dallas Symphony Orchestra will examine orchestral scores with the purpose of choosing any they deem appropriate for inclusion in their repertoire.

There will be one reading session with the Dallas Symphony Orchestra for works composed for orchestra. Chamber music players will be provided, in so far as possible, through the Music Performance Trust Fund of the Recording Industry, or the composer may bring his own performers.

Time will be allowed for private consultation with the moderator for those composers desiring his criticism of their works.

Yashica Has New Lens for Amateur-Pro

By BART KINCH

United Press International
Yashica, the Japanese manufacturer of a variety of cameras for the hobbyist and the professional, recently introduced a new 35mm single lens reflex aimed at the advanced amateur or the pro.

The new camera, called the J-5, is fully automatic and boasts a highly sensitive shutter-coupled CdS light meter. The J-5 accepts all Yashica threaded lenses from the 35mm wide angle to the blockbuster 400mm telephoto. Threaded lenses from a number of other manufacturers also can be used on the camera.

It is equipped with a 55mm f-1.8 lens with a smooth helicoid focusing mount. The viewfinder image has a micro-screen focusing spot that assures precise focusing.

The camera has a nice appearance and the CdS cell is small and unobtrusive.

A "preview control" on the lens barrel permits the photographer to stop down instantly for depth of field determination. Shutter speeds range from 1/2 second to 1/1000 second plus X synchronization at 1/60 second.

The cadmium sulphide CdS exposure meter has an ASA range from 12 to 800 and has a "high," "low," and "off" switch to conserve battery power.

When coupled to the shutter dial, it indicates the proper aperture for the shutter speed being used. Also, when a specific aperture is needed, by dialing it in the proper shutter speed will be set automatically.

The J-5 is easy to operate, responsive and designed for fast handling. A single stroke film advance also cocks the shutter and prevents double exposure.

The camera lists for $205 including carrying case.

Dr. Louis Walton Sipley, director of the American Museum of Photography in Philadelphia, recently accepted the gift of a number of historical pieces of German camera equipment which will become part of the museum's permanent collection. The gift included a working model of the 1913 prototype Leica, an original model of the 1929 Rolleiflex twin-lens reflex camera, a working model of the first away model of the present day 35mm f-2.8 Car Zeiss Planar copying lens.

The presentation was made by Wolf Wehran, editor of Camera News of West Germany, who currently is conducting a tour in behalf of the 13 companies that make up the West German trade association.

In addition to Philadelphia and New York, Wehran's tour will include stops at Washington, Atlanta, Houston, Dallas, Phoenix, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, Ore., Seattle, Denver, Minneapolis, St. Louis, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland and Boston where the tour is scheduled to end July 1.

At the New York World's Fair, the official 90-minute Agfacolor motion picture of the 1964 winter Olympic games at Innsbruck, Austria, had its world premier at the Austrian Pavilion.

The final film was edited erator for those composers desiring his criticism of their works.

The conference is sponsored jointly by the Fine Arts Department of the Dallas Public Library and the Dallas Symphony Orchestra.

FIBER-CLAY-METAL — The National Biennial Craft Competition launched by the St. Paul Art Center, St. Paul, Minn., in 1952 is scheduled to be held in the fall of 1964 according to Malcolm E. Lein, Director. The competition, open to all American Craftsmen has become a classic in the American Craft Community.

FIBER-CLAY-METAL — 1964 will be more than significant for the Twin Cities area because it will be the first major art exhibition to be held in St. Paul's new $3,000,000 Arts and Science Center occupying a full city block in downtown St. Paul.

A jury of three art experts will jury the competition. Jurying is scheduled for October 22, 23, and 24, 1964. Over $2,500.00 in purchase awards will be offered in the competition.

Since the establishment of Fiber-Clay-Metal as a continuing part of the program of the Saint Paul Art Center, the Center has been commissioned twice by the United States Information Agency to prepare a travelling exhibition of American Crafts. The first such exhibition was "on the road" for over two years in front of and behind the Iron Curtain. The second Travelling Craft Exhibition, now on view at the Center, was assembled from the fiber-clay-METAL competition of 1962, as well as from the Center's Permanent Collection. This second show will tour the Far East. Further information regarding the 1964 Competition may be had by addressing inquiries to the Center, 476 Summit Avenue, St. Paul, attention Mrs. S. Rosenblum.

"Not on your life!" Russ Henninger, of 117 Ely, Security, retorted, "the shirts I wear are laundered by Sno-White and anybody else can get their fine service and collar comfort merely by phoning 634-2866!" "I'll bet it would be hard to get a Sno-White laundered shirt off any man's back!" Russ added. adv.

Subject for the month was "Stormy Weather." First place went to Leda Varney for "Snowed In." Harold Wilcox took second place with "Anyone For Lunch" and honorable mention for "Storm at White Sands." Third place went to Betty Fowler for her print "Knee High."

Honorable mentions also went to Lillian Jeffries and Bill Bowers for a print they submitted with no title and to Lindel Lawson for "Shadow of Things to Come."

The prints were of a documentary nature showing hospitals and doctors as well as buildings in Leningrad, Simferopol, Yalta, Sevastapol, Kiev and Odessa.

He traveled by air and train and was taken by tour guides to visit the villages and institutions.

LEISURETIME BOOKS by John Fetter

Hiroshima Bombing Myth Probed in Book

The Hiroshima Pilot, by William Bradford Huie (Putnam $5.95). A meticulously factual biography of former Air Force Maj. Claude R. Eatherly hero of one of modern America's weirdest myths.

The accepted version of the myth has it that Eatherly was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross and hailed as a hero for his part in the A-bombing of Japan, that his conscience so troubled him that he refused a disability pension as "blood money," attempted suicide and turned at last to petty crime in search of the punishment he felt he deserved.

In one form or another, this story has appeared as fact in such publications as the Congressional Record and Newsweek as well as in the anti-American press around the world, although it is almost totally false.

Huie is able to demonstrate that:

Eatherly's part in the atomic attacks on Japan was strictly minor. He was not decorated for it (except for a routine award of the Air Medal). Far from being lionized, he was ignored — and rather resented the fact.

He attempted suicide (if he did, a point which is by no means sure) some seven years before he or anyone else had suggested he had a "guilt complex" about Hiroshima.

He accepted his 100 per cent mental disability pension without question for years and probably is still collecting it.

He tried to escape rather than court punishment for most of his minor crimes, which included check-passing, robbery and post office burglary.

Eatherly read Huie's book in manuscript. He was scornful.

THE GOLDWATER PHENOMENON — Despite the overwhelming amount of attention and publicity he has received, it may well be that no American political leader is more widely misunderstood than Barry Goldwater.

The American press has bar-aged the Arizona Senator with plenty of printed space about his spectacular rise. But very little has been written about his specific beliefs and opinions on various issues. Many of his statements have been oversimplified in the retelling, and it is also very true that many people know of him only as a label.

Welcome news, then, is the publication of a new authoritative biography of Senator Goldwater. Edwin McDowell, editorial writer for the Phoenix, Arizona, Republic has written "Barry Goldwater: Portrait of an Arizonan." In this book, McDowell has given the Senator himself a marvelous opportunity to explain his stands on a wide variety of issues. By quoting freely from Goldwater speeches and writings, the author provides the reader with a chance to judge Senator Goldwater first-hand.

Several chapters of the book are turned over to specific issues and national problems — for example, labor, foreign policy, the Negro revolution, etc. In addition, an interesting biographical background is provided of the Goldwater family, past and present.

Jacky Capit, winner of the 1964 Tucson Open, is the youngest of five golfing brothers.

On July 22, 1894, the Territory of Nevada with its population of 25,000 persons held a constitutional convention, adopted a state seal and prepared for statehood which was granted three months later. To honor the hundredth anniversary of this event, the U.S. Post Office Department has announced that the Nevada Statehood Commemorative stamp will be issued July 22 with first-day ceremonies in Carson City.

The red, yellow and blue 5-cent stamp will depict a view of Virginia City as seen from the surrounding mountains. An outline map of the state appears in the upper right section of the stamp.

Collectors desiring first-day cancellations of the Nevada Statehood stamp may send addressed envelopes, together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Carson City, Nev. 89701. The outside envelope to the postmaster should be clearly marked "First-Day Covers - Nevada - Statehood Stamp." Cover requests must be made no later than July 22, 1964.

An unusual philatelic situation occurred recently behind the Iron Curtain when Romania issued a set of stamps honoring U.S. and Soviet astronauts. The 10 stamps, all airmail, featured one astronaut on each stamp. The U.S. flag appeared in the background of the American heroes and the U.S.S.R. flag appeared behind the Russians.

An exhibit of rare stamps and postal items is now on display in a temporary exhibit hall of the Smithsonian Institution's new Museum of History and Technology. The temporary exhibit will be continued until the completion of the Hall of Philately and Postal History at a later date. Many rare items are included in the display but the one that intrigues me the most is a postcard recovered from the wreckage of the "Hindenberg."

St. Lucia, a link in the chain of islands known as the Caribbean Volcanic Arc, has issued a set of 14 new stamps, reports the Crown Agents Representative in Washington. The 1.24.5 and 6 cents illustrate a head portrait of Queen Elizabeth. The 8 and 10 cents feature a full length portrait of the Queen. The 2.50 shillings has a head and shoulders portrait of Her Majesty. The 12 cents depicts fishing boats, 15 cents — Pigeon Island, 25 cents — Reduit Beach, 35 cents — Castries Harbour, 50 cents — The Pitons, 1 shilling — Vigie Beach.

The Vatican City Post Office has issued a four-stamp set as part of the world wide campaign to save the Nubian monuments. The 10 lire and the 70 lire adhesives show the niche in the Temple of Quadi es Sebua which contains a mural painting of St. Peter. The 20 lire and 200 lire feature the Kiosk of the Emperor Trajan at Philae.

France has issued two new stamps honoring the centenary of the Red Cross. The 20 franc plus 10 franc shows "The Infant and the Grape" by Pierre Jean David. The 25 franc plus 10 franc features "The Flute Player" by Manet.

Burundi has issued a five-value set commemorating the ninth Olympic Winter Games held at Innsbruck, Austria. The designs feature ice hockey, figure skating, men's speed skating, skiing and the Olympic Torch and Rings. A souvenir sheet also was issued at the same time.

Rusty Rustles Recipes From Century-Old Book

By MARGUERITE MITCHELL

Last week Leisuretime carried an article I wrote containing excerpts from an 1862 edition of Arthur's Home Magazine.

Several readers have inquired about the magazine's recipes.

Here is one for a chicken pie that sounds quite unusual; at last to me, as it is made in layers.

The editors suggest using two "common-sized" chickens, old ones will answer, which are not good to roast, which are placed in a pot with plenty of water, salt and boiled until tender, "but not too much."

Make a crust as you would for biscuits using cream instead of milk. Roll about one-fourth inch thick, and line the sides of a six-quart pan with the crust, then dip in a layer of chicken, season with butter, pepper and salt to suit the taste; then another layer of crust, and follow with a layer of chicken, and so on until the pan is full.

Then roll a top crust large enough to cover the pan, put into the oven, bake moderately one hour and a half, and "you will have chicken pie enough for a dozen persons, and I doubt not but they will pronounce it good."

This next recipe may take a bit of doing but it sounds intriguing. It's called "A French Beverage."

"Boil four ounces and a half of powdered ginger in 14 quarts of water, wine measure. Then beat up four whites of eggs to a froth, and mix them, together with nine pounds of white sugar, in the preceding. Then take nine lemons, and peel them carefully; add the juice and the rind to the foregoing ingredients. Put the whole into a barrel; add three tablespoonfuls of yeast. Bung down the barrel, and in about twelve days bottle it off. In 15 days it will be fit for drinking; but it improves by keeping."

Plan a party, roll out the barrel, put on a polka record, and have at it.

To make Apple Fritters, take one pint of milk, three eggs, salt just to taste, and as much flour as will make a batter. Beat the yolks and whites separately, add the yolks to the milk, stir in the whites with as much flour as will make a batter.

Have ready some tender apples, peel them, cut them in slices round the apple, take the core carefully out of the center of each slice, and to every spoonful of batter lay in a slice of apple which must be cut very thin. Fry them in hot lard to a light brown on both sides.

The magazine had a recipe for "Toast Water" that called for toasting two slices of bread a nice brown, placing them into a quart pitcher and filling it with cold water. This was covered and allowed to stand half an hour before use.

What this was used for, the editors forgot to say. Does anyone know?

(Comments and questions concerning recipes which appear in this column may be addressed to "Good Appetite," in care of Leisuretime, Gazette Telegraph, Colorado Springs, Colo.)

Doll to Doll

Hayley Mills, currently starring with Deborah Kerr, John Mills and Edith Evans in Universal's "The Chalk Garden," sent a swath of her hair to the hospital recently: the famed Doll's Hospital in England. The hair piece will go on a doll used by Hayley in the film.

George Freundlich isn't a comedian, but he has kept the stars at Universal Studios in stitches for the past 20 years. George, currently working with Universal's "McHale's Navy," is a veteran tailor specializing in clothes that are ripped apart in slap-stick sequences.

New Musical Comedy Set For Estes Park

The first line spoken on the stage is "Will you marry me?" and the last, "I now pronounce you man and wife," and the events that take place in between take for a most entertaining evening of theatre in the new musical comedy "A Family Affair," to be performed at 8:15 p.m. Friday and Saturday at the Stanley Casino in Estes Park.

The comedy, made famous on Broadway by Shelley Berman, is being produced by the Fine Arts Guild of the Rockies.

Directed by Ron Whittemore, a graduate student in music at State University, "A Family Affair" includes such tunes as "Anything for You," "Beautiful," "My Son the Lawyer," "Right Girls," and "Kalua Bay."

The cast includes Bonnie Martin as Sally Nathan, a girl who wants very much to get married; Larry Manoson, her groom from the Siegal clan; Dave McNeill as Uncle Alfie Nathan; Carmen Amicarella as Miss Lumpe, a wedding consultant; B. J. Martin as Tilly Siegal, mother of the groom; George Cowles as Morris Siegal, father of the groom, and many others.

Providing musical accompaniment will be Mrs. Loyd Williams on the organ, with Mrs. Ray Baker and Mrs. John Montgomery on pianos.

Chessmates

Perry Mason regulars William Talman and Wesley Lau play chess on the set between takes. Toughest match to date ran three episodes.

Burrows Does Show a Year

Doing 13 shows in 13 years sounds like a dare to destiny. But that's exactly what writer-director Abe Burrows has done. For Burrows is a very daring fellow.

Show number 13 is "What Makes Sammy Run?" the new musical based on Budd Schulberg's best-selling novel. It's catapulted Steve Lawrence to Broadway fame and given the public some "big" songs including "Room Without Windows" and "My Home Town." In short, it's a happy hit.

Why has Burrows done so many shows in the past years? "Guys and Dolls" was my first show," he explains. "I thought 'Gee, this is easy. All the others will be like this, too —"

Since he has talent, the ability to work hard, and creativity as well as confidence, Burrows has roared down the Broadway road non-stop. Originally a writer, he became a director first with "Two on the Aisle" because he felt writing was "too lonely." "Having been a performer (he worked in night clubs) I missed the crowds." With project number 14, a musical about men and their women called "The Harem," he will also do the lyrics.

Among the entries that Burrows has brought to Broadway are the musical "Make a Wish," "Three Wishes for Jamie," which told of Irish horse-traders in Georgia. "Can Can," a French froth with tunes by Cole Porter, "Reclining Figure," a snappy, happy comedy, "Silk

Ellie to Bring Circus Pals Here Next Friday

Ellie the baby elephant and her friends in the James Brothers Circus will appear at Penrose Stadium Friday under the auspices of the Colorado Springs Junior Chamber of Commerce.

With Ellie will be lions and tigers, the Liberty Horses and of course, human beings such as the Flying Hartzell's trapeze trio, Lilliane Parbot, trapeze soloist, foot juggler, Chester Cable and of course the clowns among others.

But Ellie will probably steal the hearts of youngsters as she goes through her carefully rehearsed act — an act by the way which has turned the elephant into a ham. She now waits for applause like any good trooper, even in rehearsal.

Ellie made her debut with the "Stockings," a musical spoofing the USSR, the tuneful "Happy Hunting," "Say, Darling," which made amiable fun of Broadway mores, a musical "First Impressions," based on Jane Austen's tale of nineteenth century manners, "Pride and Prejudice," the comic "The Golden Fleecing," and, just prior to "Sammy," the marathon musical hit, "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying."

Although Burrows could relax a little at the moment, he finds himself "sneaking" into "Sammy" nearly every night and taking notes on what's happening. He's a man who only knows how to be busy.

COLORADO SPRINGS KENNEL CLUB NOTES

by Mary Urban

What are dog shows all about?

A dog show is the place where dogs compete for prizes, championship points and top awards. It's a place where dog fanciers, breeders and dog lovers congregate for the primary purpose of improving the breed, and also for the sport of watching the different breeds in action.

Many people who attend dog shows are slightly bewildered by what they see and the many breeds of dogs they see, many of which they do not recognize.

Don't let your ignorance of dog show procedure stop you from attending these fine sporting events.

Who runs the show?

The immediate sponsor of a show is either a local kennel club or an association of fanciers of some single breed. (The latter frequently sponsor "Specialty Shows," which are shows restricted to a single breed. The active management of most shows is turned over to a dog show superintendent, who supplies the necessary equipment and takes charge of all arrangements.

All shows which give points toward a championship are held under rules set up by the American Kennel Club which has its headquarters in New York City. A.K.C. has the responsibility of licensing superintendents and judges of purebred dogs and of keeping records of awards and points given every dog at every A.K.C. Show.

Sometimes a club holds a show which is not as extensive or formal as a sanctioned A.K.C. show and these are called Puppy Matches or Fun Matches. At these shows no points are awarded. Usually just ribbons and trophies are given to the winners.

How are dogs judged?

The judge is guided by the Standard of Perfection for each breed in making his selection. This Standard describes in detail what would be considered a perfect specimen of the breed and often relates the importance of each point. As a further aid to the judge and the breeder, the standards sometimes list definite faults which are to be discouraged or penalized in the breed.

The judge must study each dog carefully, with his hands as well as his eyes, in motion as well as standing. He must check the texture of the coat, the firmness of muscle and bone and the soundness of the teeth. He must actually handle each dog.

The way a dog moves is considered very important because it is the crucial test of body structure. The handlers of the dogs have to walk, trot and run them while the judge watches from side, front and back.

There are a number of things which the handler can and will do to show his dog to best advantage and the lively and personable dog with a flair for showmanship has a definite advantage. But the basis of judging in the show ring is the physical beauty and structural soundness which the dog has been given by careful breeding to conform with the Standard of Perfection set up for its breed.

Questions about dogs may be directed to Mrs. Glenn Urban, 495-2143.

Gina Proves Tops on Both Sides of the Camera Lens

By DAVE JAMPEL

TOKYO (AP) — Gina Lollobrigida, one of the world's most photographed women, is turning professional picture taker herself. Regarded as a fine amateur photographer, Miss Lollobrigida said she has decided to enter the pro ranks to give her photos added prestige.

"From now on I will get paid," Gina told The Associated Press. "They will not respect me as a photographer any more if I don't get money."

"I think I should get even a little bit just for the principle," Miss Lollobrigida added.

Gina's photographic works have appeared in Paris Match and many other publications.

The diminutive film star with the celebrated hour-glass figure was in Tokyo helping to promote an Italian film festival.

Miss Lollobrigida hastened to note that her new profession will not interfere with her movie career.

"My chance for photography usually comes when I'm working and have to wait for my scenes," she said. "It's a good way of relaxation for me. When I get sometimes nervous, if I do pictures, I'm relaxed."

"I like to photograph people," Gina continued. "I shoot the other actors and the workers. I like people because there is a reality if you catch the right moment."

Miss Lollobrigida started taking pictures in earnest when she was in Spain on location for "Solomon and Sheba." Having studied at Rome's Academia de Belle Arte before becoming an actress, she took easily to photography.

"It is for me like doing paintings because I know the composition," Gina explained. "I can imagine the pictures."

Taught by some of the world's best, including David Seymour and the late combat photographer Robert Capa, Miss Lollobrigida became an expert with a camera. Two years ago, attending a Russian film festival in Moscow, Gina took a series of pictures that made a layout in an Italian magazine.

She is especially proud of a closeup of Yuri Gagarin, the pioneer space man.

"He has the most wonderful smile," Gina noted. "But I don't know if the smile was for the camera or for me."

Although Philippe Halsman has called her the most photogenic woman in the world, Miss Lollobrigida is not generally satisfied with pictures of her.

"It's very difficult," she said. "When you are photographing a man, you do a character portrait and it's always good. But with a woman, she must be beautiful. So the lights must be good. I'm not very technical, but I understand the lights," Gina expounded. "Often even when the picture has character, it's not good for the woman."

"For a woman diffused light is good," she continued. "But when I do a dramatic scene and I want a character expression, I don't care about the face. Then I want the bad lights and the expression. When you catch an expression of this kind, the beauty is there."

Big Man Has Bigger Ego

It's no secret that Jackie Gleason is a man of considerable ego. He is the first to admit it.

"If I didn't have an enormous ego and a monumental pride," he asks, "how could I be a performer?"

The star of "The Jackie Gleason Show: The American Scene Magazine," seen Saturdays on the channel 11, has been described by Time magazine as a "talent so elastic that he could probably make a living in any form of show business except midget auto-racing."

And novelist John O'Hara has called the great one "an artist of the first rank"—a man who "puts his own personal stamp on all his mature work, making his handling of his material uniquely his own."

It's clearly evident that the Gleason stamp is indelibly etched on every facet of his television series. Not only does he star in the important comedy sketches, he also runs virtually every other aspect of the show — rewriting scripts, directing the actors, booking guests, selecting the music, even choosing bit-part players.

Gleason's success as a CBS Television Network comedy star for some 10 years has enabled him to turn to serious acting and emerge triumphant in motion pictures, a field where he once found only failure.

His most recent pictures, "Requiem For a Heavyweight,"

"The Hustler," "Gigot," "Papa's Delicate Condition" and "Soldier In the Rain" reveal him as a fine dramatic actor.

Gleason's success as an actor — indeed, his success as a great comedian on television — is the result of his unique talents. His methods are exclusively his own.

For example, he memorizes at first sight. While Method actors "live" their roles and perform various mental, emotional and physical gyrations before stepping into character, Gleason shuffles through a script, stomps around a set impatiently and is ready to snap into action instantaneously.

One famous Method actor warms up by shaking his wrists like a swimmer unlimbering another shadow boxes and dances. To Gleason, this is both amusing and irritating. He calls their warm-ups, "Marinating." Instead of such antics he cracks jokes and shouts, "Let's go. Let's go." And when the director says "go," Gleason is ready.

Critics say it's not so surprising that he is so good an actor. Whereas other comics may be masters of one-line gags, Gleason's acting and humor are based on the creating of comic characters such as Joe the Bartender, the Poor Soul, Rum Dum and Reggie Van Gleason III.

As the late James Thurber remarked, such comedy is not only amusing, it is also a serious commentary on human life.

Anybody who really knows Gleason knows that in a flash he can plumb the depths of dark despair and, as if on signal, scale the heights of bizarre and hilarious humor.

He is often asked: "Why is it that many famous comedians are not funny and happy when they're not performing?"

In typical Gleason fashion, he sidesteps a serious answer and quips:

"How do you expect a guy to be happy when he's not working?"

Nearly every weekend Vivian Vance, co-star of "The Lucy Show," commutes by jetliner from Hollywood to her Stamford, Conn., home.

MOSTLY ABOUT COINS

Mint Sets Now on Sale At Denver, Philly Mints

By The

Out of the Pockets Collector
May saw the long-awaited mint sets, or uncirculated sets of coins go on sale at both the Philadelphia and the Denver mints. Mint sets vary from Proof sets in that a mint set contains one of each of the coins issued at both mints during the current year and are just "run of the mint" coinage, however they are packaged in ploid film as are the Proof sets.

The six compartment package is three compartments in width and two deep, with the coins placed thus: (top row), left to right, 25c, 50c and a specially printed medallion identifying the set; (bottom row), left to right, 5c, 10c and 1c.

The ploid film package from the Denver mint has a red stripe at both the top and the bottom of the package while the one from the Philadelphia mint has a blue stripe. The identifying medallion in the package from the Denver mint reads: Uncirculated Coins of Denver Mint, Distributed by U.S. Mint. The word "Philadelphia" is found on the coins from the Philadelphia mint.

It was "Hear-say" that a person could buy from one to 5 sets when visiting the mint in person, so when a friend went to Denver this week, I sent for 2 sets. When he returned, it was with the explanation that only one set could be purchased.

We have not found out the reason yet for this curtailment in the number that can be bought but it is no doubt a part of the overall picture in the general coin shortage.

So, lest we worry too much about the current coin shortage, let us take a look at the most recent regulation concerning Gold Certificates.

And, unless we take too much for granted, there was a time in the not too distant past that we had gold certificates. The most recent controversy has been on replacing the silver certificates with Federal Reserve notes.

Gold certificates were easily identified as they were on a paper with a golden tinge to it, on the reverse side. They were first authorized in 1863 by an Act of Congress but were not printed until 1865. The last were printed in 1933, (except a series for use with the trade channels of the Federal Reserve System that was printed in 1934.)

Last week Secretary of the Treasury Dillon issued a regulation removing all restrictions on owning, or possessing, these Gold Certificates. For the first time in thirty years people possessing these certificates may now show them in their collections and they may now be legally advertised for sale by dealers.

The latest information from the Treasury Department reveals that $19,500,000 of these certificates are still outstanding. This includes the number that may have been destroyed by such causes as fires and floods, etc. The $19.5 million are in a total of 979,575 certificates.

The most rare of the certificates will be the $10,000 bills of which there are but 8 unaccounted for in the report of the Treasury. Of the $5,000 denomination, there are 10 outstanding. In the $1,000 denomination, there are 865.

A total of 1,246 of the $500 denomination remain unaccounted for while the $100 denomination is shy 29,458 on the redemption list. There are 332,070 of the $50 series and over a half a million — 524,415 — of the $10 denomination.

Gold certificates have shown portraits of two statesmen, a former United States Treasurer and eight former Presidents. In the first through the third series, they generally carried patriotic devices instead of portraits.

There is a $100,000 Gold certificate. It has the picture of Woodrow Wilson on it but it was never released into circulation. It was used within the member banks of the Federal Reserve System.

The other portraits on Gold Certificates are: $10, Michael Hillegas, first treasurer of the United States; $20, James Garfield, and George Washington; $50, Silas Wright, U.S. senator and governor of New York; a second $50 denomination with U. S. Grant; $100, Thomas H. Benton, statesman; $500, Abraham Lincoln; $1,000, Alexander Hamilton, (two different portraits and two different series); $5,000, James Madison; $10,000, Andrew Jackson.

Readers of the daily editorial pages of this newspaper who read Dr. George Boardman's column on Silver Dollars in last Tuesday's issue, found a good lesson on "hard money" in a short space.

And speaking of silver dollars, there remains on deposit a total of 2,971,672, a static total for several weeks. But the stock of silver bullion is decreasing at a rapid clip, 598,110.4 ounces from April 16 to April 17 when a total of 28,537,669.4 ounces was shown on the Treasurer's Balance Sheet.

Controversial Artist To Have Pueblo Show

The work of a young and highly controversial artist named Harold Waldrum will be presented in a one-man show at the Gallery-7th Red Door, Pueblo, May 10 through 24.

The artist will be present at the public opening May 10 from 2 to 5 p.m. and is expected to be on hand Saturdays and Sundays through the 24th.

Twenty-five oils and a number of pastels will be included in the show, all produced within the past year by the 29-year-old artist.

Waldrum's work appeared in successful one-man show at the Contemporary Gallery in Colorado Springs in 1963 and in Ouray during the past summer. The artist is 29 years old and has been painting with increasing seriousness since college days in Gunnison.

A bearded non-conformist who declares that juried shows are of little use in judging art for future generations and who refuses to join any organizations, Waldrum believes the role of an artist is to present truth as seen by an outsider observing the society of the day.

During the last few years, Waldrum has turned from music, which he teaches in high school at Lakin, to art as his chosen form of self-expression. His career as band director and head of instrumental music in Lakin has resulted in 51 gold medals for his band to date this year, and 76 last year, as opposed to an average band record of 12 to 15 a year.

Waldrum consistently maintains that painting is the real excitement in his life that he must paint and cannot keep from doing so. He declares that he gives himself 20 years to become nationally famous and will give up painting only if he does not realize his goal in that time.

Regular gallery hours during which the show can be viewed are 2 to 5 p.m., Tuesday through Sunday.

Ken Burrett Is Twirling Ambassador

A 19 year old Wasson High School student who was recently named "Youth Goodwill Ambassador" by Mayor Harry Hoth will tour the state capitol May 12 and be presented to Gov. John Love.

Kenneth Burrett, 1447 Sunset Road, is in the midst of a busy rush to receive complete sponsorship for the annual Goodwill Tour Burrett, who is World Twirling Association National and World Champion of Boys for 1963-64, hopes that the city service clubs will join in sponsorship of the tour.

The Optimist Club and the Noon Club were sole sponsors last year and the year before and are sponsoring part of the tour this year. Burrett, who has won over 200 awards for baton twirling, says of the two clubs, "Without them I would have never made the achievement of world champion and many other titles."

Burrett was made an honorary citizen of El Paso, Tex., in April and plans to attend Texas Western College. He is late in graduating from Wasson, having been delayed two years by illness.

Burrett has asked local citizens interested in helping the Goodwill Tour to call him at 632-5483.

Shoot'em-Up In Estes Park

"Western Justice," the daily shoot'em-up in downtown Estes Park, Colorado sponsored by the Eastman Kodak Company, of Rochester, New York, and the Estes Park Chamber of Commerce, will be held in July and August, 1964, according to Dr. Curry Meyer, originator and director of the program.

The hour of the performance, which starts on the main street with a sheriff and his deputy giving chase to some deadly desperadoes and ends with a hanging trial is 5 p.m. daily, Monday through Friday. Last year an average of 350 saw the daily performance.

Professional actors and actresses, directed by Joe Hill of the Gaslight Players, will provide the action. Pictures of jurors selected from the guests will be sent to the juror's home towns.

Hills of Gold

There's gold in them thar hills and gullies in Aruba, and if visitors hunt long enough they may take home a shining souvenir. But even in the heyday of the island's "gold rush" they never found enough to pay for the labor involved. Balashi is a ghost town of the old gold mining and smelting days.

Annual Ballet Tour Set To Open Here Next Month

The Rocky Mountain National Ballet Company will open its summer series of ballet performances June 26 in the Broadmoor International Center.

The ballets to be performed in each of the concerts of the series are "Scheherazade" by Rimsky-Korsakov and "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik" by Mozart. Original choreography will be used for both ballets.

Other appearances of the Rocky Mountain National Ballet are contracted for at Pueblo, Denver and Boulder, with plans underway for additional performances in Greeley and Ft. Collins.

Choreography for "Scheherazade" is by company director Ilse Reese Gahart. Featured dancers are Dodie Foland, Jim Roney and Wes Williamson.

George Zortich, internationally known dancer and choreographer, has been contracted to do the choreography for Mozart's "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik." Cynthia Lamb is the featured dancer.

In addition to the ballet company's own dancers, contracts have been made to bring additional dancers from throughout the United States, coming from as far away as Winter Park, Fla., and Anchorage, Alaska.

The ballet company's summer touring season, hailed by Dance Magazine as an ambitious project, was planned "to fill the cultural hiatus of the tourist season," according to Robert S. Ramsay, president.

Ben Gahart, musical director, said that "Scheherazade" and "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik" had been chosen both for popular appeal and for the variety of entertainment they offered.

Rehearsals for the June 26 concert have been going on for the past several weeks.

Costumes for the ballets are being prepared by Donna Parman.

Scenic design for the touring company's two ballets was done by David Hand.

Rabbi Says FDR Ignored Jewish Plight

The president of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, in a discussion about the controversial play, "The Deputy," on the ABC Radio Network, said, "If playwright Rolf Hochhuth blames a fictional Plus (for remaining silent while so many Jews were murdered during World War II) he must also blame a very real Anthony Eden and Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Although Rabbi Maurice N. Eisendrath said on the ABC Radio program, "Message of Israel," that he believed Hochhuth meant to indict everyone who saw this startling play, rather than blame one man, the UAHC President offered several examples to show that others, including Roosevelt, a Churchill, and Eden, and a Lord, Maine (British High Commissioner in the Middle East) could have indeed saved Jews.

In a World House meeting on March 27, 1942, Robert E. Sherwood reported to Roosevelt and Hopkins, the then secretary of State, Cordell Hull brought up the question of a German offer to save 70,000 Jews of Bulgaria if the Allies would agree to accept them. Rabbi Eisendrath said, "British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden replied, the whole question of the Jews in Europe is very difficult, and we should move very cautiously about offering to take the Jews out of Bulgaria; if we do that then the Jews of the world will be waiting us to make similar offers in Poland and Germany, and Hitler might well take us up on any such offer, and there are simply not enough ships in the world to handle them."

Rabbi Eisendrath also pointed out to the ABC Radio audience that authentic U. S. documents showed a definite Nazi offer made through the Swiss legation in Berlin to release 5,000 Jewish children from the concentration camps in exchange for 5,000 interned German civilians.

Post Office To Issue JFK Stamp May 29

The John Fitzgerald Kennedy memorial postage stamp, created by one of the nation's top design firms, Postmaster General John A. Gronouski announced.

The 5-cent stamp will be issued nationwide May 29, the 43rd birthday anniversary of the late president. First day ceremonies for the stamp will be in Boston. It is a blue-gray stamp in horizontal format with an initial print order of 250 million, double the customary production of commemorative stamps.

Gronouski described the Kennedy stamp as "the most carefully planned stamp in postal history." He said that a seven-man team in the New York City design firm of Raymond Loewy William Smith had worked exclusively on the project from January 16 to March 17, when the design was approved.

The stamp combines an informal portrait of Kennedy and a reproduction of the eternal flame on the Kennedy grave. Circling the stamp is a quotation from the inaugural address of 1961: "... and the glow from that fire can truly light the world."

This is the design that Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy and members of the Kennedy family chose from a portfolio of 16 proposals submitted by the Loewy-Smith organization.

Actress Was Once Artist

Hollywood-born Robin Blake took a roundabout route to a television career and was a commercial artist when greasepaint won over water colors.

The blonde, diminutive actress who plays student nurse Judy Clampett on ABC-TV's "General Hospital" showed drawing skill as a youngster and by the time she was in her teens, had decided on becoming a commercial artist.

About this time Robin's father moved the family to Flint, Mich. Following graduation from high school, the would-be artist enrolled as an art major in Michigan State University. Two years later Robin moved to Detroit to job-hunt.

"I must have visited every agency in the city, but couldn't find a job," Robin reflected. "Just as things were getting a little desperate, I ran into a friend who sold cars. Before I knew it, I was doing car commercials on television."

On impulse, and believing opportunities for commercial artists were better on the West Coast, Robin returned to her native Hollywood and immediately found work doing newspaper and magazine ads. "It was great fun and a good job. I couldn't have been happier."

After a year of that, a friend casually asked me if I'd like to earn some extra money doing a bit role on a TV show with Margaret O'Brien and Tony Randall. This sounded interesting, so I took it. Then, right in the middle of rehearsals, the girl who was to play Margaret O'Brien's sister became ill. The director asked me to take the part and there I was, acting on television," Robin mused.

Robin gradually dropped out of the commercial art field as she began getting minor parts on a number of series.

USC Builds New Wing To House Menjou Library

HOLLYWOOD—Adolphe Menjou's library (his collection of books and pamphlets on communism, many out of print, was probably the most extensive ever assembled anywhere, goes to the University of Southern California, where Henry Salvatori is building a new library wing. ## Collecting Things Starts As Fun, Ends as Addiction

(Editor's note: The writer of this article bought a mustard clock with the Kumer label still attached for $1 in a junk store. Kumer estimates it is 50 years old. The clock was shown in conjunction with Kumer's 100th anniversary at the Colorado Grocers' Assn. convention at The Broadmoor Hotel and also "appeared" on Joanne Rowe's TV show. Kumer gratefully showered Rusty with several jars of pickles for borrowing her clock. See, it pays to collect "things.")

By MARGUERITE MITCHELL

"Do you know what I found today? A genuine handmade wire rat catcher!"

My friend stopped spooning sugar into her coffee. She sat back and with a glazed look, said weakly, "A what?"

"A genuine handmade rat catcher," I repeated.

"That's what I thought you said," my friend uttered, still glassy-eyed. I had long grown used to seeing this particular look on friends' faces when I've mentioned one of my "finds."

There was the time I bought, for 75 cents in a junk store, one of those oblong copper wash boilers. "What are you going to use it for," a friend had asked uncertainly.

"I don't know yet," I hedged a la Scarlett O'Hara. "I'll think about that tomorrow, I'll think of something."

The boiler was relegated to the basement with some of my other "things." Not too long afterwards, a woman I knew found herself the owner of one of those famous Virginia hams. After desperately searching her cupboards for a utensil large enough to hold the ham, she remembered my boiler.

It was the perfect size, and by placing the boiler across two burners, the ham was gently simmered to the juicy tenderness required in the first step of serving up this American delicacy.

My skeptical friend then grudgingly admitted my "find" had a practical use. She borrowed the boiler, filled it with ice and beer, and with pristine modesty sat back and enjoyed compliments for her ingenuity.

Another "find," which drew hanks of laughter from some of my friends, was an apple-peeler. You attach the instrument to a counter like a meat-grinder, impale an apple on a sharp stick, turn the crank and presto, a blade neatly peels the apple.

The grown-ups were in fits of hysteria at all this, but several children present loved it and managed to keep the doctor away for some time by chomping away on the apples they took turns peeling.

I once saw at a local auction house a corn grinder that was so rusty it had to be removed with part of the barn wall still attached. I mentioned this to Glenn Urban who shares my liking for "things." Glenn, who grew up on a farm in Iowa, was delighted and asked me to place a bid for him. He won the item, for $2.50, and nailed it to his barn wall in the Black Forest. It may not serve a practical purpose Glenn says, but it adds color to his barn and reminds him of home.

Collecting "things" is an abiding passion with many Americans who have become suffocated with the tacky-tacky decor of today's houses many marked by their detached objectivity. Such collectors want their houses to mirror themselves, not echo every house on the block.

The devout collector has to be thick-skinned in order to stand in good grace the snide remarks of non-collectors. So such things do sometimes lend an excessively refined aspect to a house; this is of small consequence to the person who dwells therein.

For example, Mrs. David Black's dining room in her Cascade Avenue home, is filled with antique pickle jars. Some, of colored cut and pressed glass, are arranged on window shelves where the sunlight makes them sparkle like precious jewels.

Attorney Allan Asher has a small but fine collection of Claissons. Gazette Telegraph photographer Stan Payne's wife Alta collects old quilts, adding to them by making her own. GT staffer Charles Dudley, 83, collects dictionaries, some older than he.

There's an amusing story connected with this. Once, when an editor chided Mr. Dudley for an error in one of his stories, reminding him he was supposed to be the last word on rules relating to grammar, the gentle reporter is supposed to have rejoined, "But that's my hobby."

Ralph Giddings is perhaps the king of collectors here. Ralph's home in Monroe Place is chock-full with everything from Britton bronzes to carousel horses (which he discovered decaying in Trinidad) to some 500 elephant statues. (Ralph is a staunch Republican.)

Collecting such things as the list can cause no end of bother, however. A woman I know was given a ceramic horse her father made to duplicate a live one she'd had as a girl. A few years later the weary lady found herself housing some 300 horses and looking about desperately for cabinets to stall them.

Another woman I know unthinkingly set up a huge fat clay pig as a party gimmick and invited her guests to autograph it. The following week delivery men arrived with no less than five gift-wrapped boxes containing thank-you presents of - you guessed it - pigs. She now has more than 200 and hasn't been able to abide pork in ages.

Meanwhile, back to the genuine handmade wire rat catcher. I simply said I found it. I didn't say I bought it. But I may if I can think of something to use it for.

For that's part of the fun of collecting, being able to find inventive ways to use such "finds."

The heaviest snowfall in 24 hours in the U.S.-75 inches-occurred at Silver Lake, Colo., on April 14 and 15, 1921.

LAZY PEELERS — This is a genuine apple peeler as marketed in the 1880's. Everybody laughed when Rusty, who tells about her experiences in collecting things in the accompanying story, bought the gadget, but as she proved, it works. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

Skiers Set to Go In Annual Peak Ski Race

An army may travel on its stomach, but ski racers competing in the Annual Pikes Peak Slalom Sunday will travel up and down the Pikes Peak race course via shuttle truck and auto.

Foremost among obstacles to be surmounted by Ent Blazer and Sun-Jet sponsors of the race, will be the difficulty of transporting numerous racers and officials between the starting point and finish line. Most ski races are conducted at ski areas where tow and lift facilities can be utilized in the ascent of racers, gate keepers, and officials necessary to control and performance of the race. Some Colorado areas possess lifts capable of moving up to 2,500 skiers per hour.

With a late date in the snow season the Pikes Peak race is unique in that it requires a course set where there will be adequate snow and of quality to support the slicing traffic of numerous competitors. Too, the course must be of sufficient length and vertical rise to meet minimum requirements established by the sanctioning Southern Rocky Mountain Ski Association. The demands of snow and slope require setting the Pikes Peaks course with a starting gate located at the 16-Mile point on the Pikes Peak Highway and a finish line marked just above Glen Cove. This location is traditional and far removed from ski lifts.

Co-chairmen of Transportation, Brian Mullett and Ed Ven Arx, are charged with responsibility for acquisition of trucks and autos needed for regular trips up and down the Peak highway. Several Colorado Springs carriers have already offered equipment to carry the skiers between starting gate and finish line and to be available throughout the race day.

Adding to the uncertainties confronting the race sponsors, weather conditions prevalent Sunday will have important bearing on transportation details. Any shuttle operation will be vitally dependant upon Jack Sullivan's Peak highway crews and their ability to free the highway from drifting snow and other weather-presented hazards.

An estimated 200 racers are anticipated for the events, with skiers of national and international ranking expected to enter the top seeded events. Five classes will be open for entry to both men and women racers in Classified A through Novice category.
